'Aggression' If Police Moved—Reds

Berlin Plan Opposed

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany yesterday announced a freeze on military discharges and warned that any attempt to transfer more West German policemen into beleaguered West Berlin will be considered "an act of aggression."

The twin announcements coincided with the biggest Communist war games since the Second World War and a new rocket-rattling speech by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

DECISION PROTESTED

The warning against sending additional policemen into West Berlin was contained in an East German note addressed to the three Western allies. It protested a West German decision last week to send volunteer traffic policemen to West Berlin for short visits as a demonstration of solidarity.

AGGRESSION WARNING

"The government of the (East) German Democratic Republic," the note said, "points out that the plan to transfer West German police troops to West Berlin is an act of aggression, which the (East) German Democratic Republic will oppose."

Last night Communist police lobbed a number of tear gas grenades across the wall that divides Berlin. They were thrown at a West Berlin loudspeaker truck.

'WAR PREPARATIONS'

The East German freeze on military discharges for another six months was announced by the Communist defence ministry. Western sources, meanwhile, estimated more than 500,000 Communist troops were taking part in the Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in East Germany.

'HORRIBLE REPRISALS'

Mikoyan, in a speech at a steel workers' rally in the East German city of Freital, said the Soviet's orbital space ship Vostok II was an example of the advances made by Soviet sciences.

"These rockets are a powerful force," he said. "The Soviet Union wishes to use them only for peaceful purposes."

But, he added: "If an aggressor should dare to attack the Soviet Union and the socialist camp they will get horrible reprisals."

Police Fire Power Boosted by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States disclosed yesterday it has taken steps to increase the fire power of West German police as the allies continued discussions on their next move in the smoldering crisis.

The state department said that "within the past few weeks" the United States had furnished M-1 automatic rifles to West Berlin police and if the local authorities requested additional weapons they would get "sympathetic consideration."

Canada Would Come Out Second Best By Joining Common Market, Says Hees

TORONTO (UPI) — Trade Minister George Hees yesterday dismissed suggestions that Canada join the Common Market on the grounds that Canada would come out "second best" in such a move.

"It would be unrealistic to expect existing industries, and the new industries which we must develop, to prosper and expand if they are forced to face unrestricted competition from the long-established and highly nurtured industries of Western Europe," Hees said.

"If our manufacturing industries in Canada are faced with competition on a free trade basis with the industries of Western Europe, they will, in most cases, come off second best, with the consequent loss of production and employment," he said.

Hees said his department was studying what the effect would be of Canadian membership in a free trade association made up of the countries of Western Europe, Britain and the United States, and what steps might be taken to increase trade between Commonwealth members.

"It seems to me," he told a service club meeting, "that if Britain finds that she cannot obtain from the European Common Market countries the kind of arrangements which would be satisfactory to her Commonwealth partners, the next move might be a re-examination of the possibilities of expanding trade within the Commonwealth."

Hees repeated statements made at the recent Commonwealth economic conference in Accra, Ghana, that British membership in the Common Market will adversely affect Canadian trade.

MARSHAL CHEN YI
. . . talks welcomed

PEKING (Reuters)—China is willing to have talks with the United States at the foreign ministers level as a step toward easing tension between the two countries, Marshal Chen Yi, Chinese foreign minister, said today.

But the initiative for any talks must come from the United States, he emphasized.

Marshal Chen Yi said "in Warsaw we are already having talks on the ambassadorial level. At Geneva we are talking on the level of vice foreign ministers. If it is suggested we talk on the foreign ministers' level we would have no objections."

Chen Yi said China is aware of fears in the West, particularly in the United States, about what would happen when China possesses atomic bombs—which is only a question of time.

When China has atomic bombs, he said, there will be less chance of war. The danger today was that such bombs were in the hands of only a few powers.

The foreign minister said if there is fear in the United States about China having atomic bombs, surely Americans realize that China can not avoid fearing the U.S. with its nuclear weapons and its policy of encircling China with military bases.

'WAR MAY SPREAD'

Marshal Chen Yi predicted that unless there is a settlement in Laos and Korea there is a risk that war will spread in the area.

He said the only way a solution to the Laotian problem could be found would be through the formation of a neutral government headed by Prince Souvanna Phouma which would include representatives of the Pathet Lao Communist guerrillas.

'FEARS GROUNDLESS'

Chen Yi said that because of China's current agricultural and industrial difficulties there is apprehension in some quarters that it "might carry out some adventure in Southeast Asia." This is groundless, he said. The only way China could overcome her difficulties was through her own production.

'A LITTLE TIGHT'

Questioned for details of these difficulties, Chen Yi said reduced agricultural production due to natural calamities—drought, floods, typhoons and insect pests—in the last three years had caused the living standards of the Chinese people to be "a little tight compared with 1958."

Enraged Pakistan Hits India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hindu-Moslem riots in which 32 persons have been killed in the last week turned into recriminations Tuesday between India and Pakistan.

Pakistani President Ayub Khan called the killing of Moslems in Uttar Pradesh state disgusting and a disgrace and ordered his envoy in New Delhi, Agha Hilaly, to protest.

INSPECTION ASKED

Hilaly delivered the protest orally to Badruddin Byabji, a foreign special secretary, and asked that a Pakistan official be allowed to inspect the troubled areas.

Byabji, a Moslem, complained that premature publicity about the protest was an "extraordinary procedure, undiplomatic, unfriendly and provocative."

He said a visit by a Pakistan official would be considered when the situation was stabilized and the entire machinery of the Indian government was mobilized to deal with the disorders.

AT UNIVERSITY

The trouble began at the Moslem university of Aligarh, 75 miles south east of New Delhi, in an election contested by Hindu and Moslem students and developed into city-wide fighting. Disorder then spread to Chandausi, 50 miles away.

The violence raised vivid memories of mass killings with the separation of India and Pakistan when they gained independence in 1947.

Fearing a spread to other states, India has warned officials to arm for preparedness measures.

'Some Folks Happy'

LONDON (AP) — A protest march against protest marches was announced on Tuesday by 18 employees of a ballroom. It will take place Thursday, with participants carrying banners saying "we get top wages" and "we are happy in our work." Allan Ferris, manager of the ballroom and leader of the march, explained: "We are sick of people calling for strikes and moaning all the time. Some people are happy."

Big Powers Hit For 'Insane' Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku called on the small nations of the world yesterday to snatch leadership from the big powers whose "insane" policies threaten global atomic destruction.

"The time has come when the great powers should not be allowed to bulldoze us into a situation which may result in our destruction due to our own negligence," he told the 100-nation General Assembly. It applauded him loudly.

"LACK OF KNOWLEDGE"

Wachuku, flaying East and West alike, said the big powers had become obsessed with the idea of their grandeur based on how many each could kill in the other camp.

"The time has come when we have to abandon the great powers—not totally, but to put them in a cold chamber, to let them feel our coolness, to see whether we cannot make them more amenable to reason."

Treat Redheads With Caution!

CHICAGO (UPI)—A former Mayo Clinic anesthesiologist urged doctors yesterday to take extra precautions against hurting redheads.

"That's because redheads are hypersensitive to pain," said Dr. John Lundy.

He said blondes generally felt less pain than redheads, and brunettes were least sensitive to pain.

Lundy, a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for more than 35 years, said hypersensitivity to pain is more than skin deep. "It may well have something to do with the glands of internal secretion," he explained.

Lundy said occupation and nationality of a patient also influenced ability to stand pain.

No Freedom, Says Defector

AMSTERDAM (UPI)—Russian scientist Alexei Golub said yesterday he defected to the West because Soviet authorities made him stop his research on cancer-producing nuclear fallout.

Golub's defection turned into an international incident when fist-swinging Soviet officials, including Ambassador Panteleimon Ponomarenko, tried to hustle Golub's wife, Alexandrouna, aboard a plane to Moscow. Mrs. Golub voluntarily left for home several hours later.

Dutch government sources said Holland may demand the expulsion of Ponomarenko and other Russian officials involved in the clash with Dutch military police.

Golub, 35, told Dutch police and alien registration officials he decided to defect while on a tourist trip here with his 32-year-old wife and a group of other Russians because Soviet authorities hampered his research. Golub tearfully stuck by his decision even though his wife refused to join him.

He said he was investigating means of removing strontium 90, which causes cancer, from the human body. Strontium 90 is contained in the radioactive fallout produced by nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, such as those being set off by the Soviets now.

"I deeply resented the lack of freedom in the Soviet Union," Golub told police. "But when I was ordered to stop all work on my pet project, I decided to leave for the West as soon as I had a chance."

Golub contacted police Saturday night with his plea for asylum. He had told his wife of his plans but she decided to return to Russia. He explained to police that she still has parents alive there.

'Useful Talks' on Berlin Held by Gromyko, Mac

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan yesterday held what they described as "useful" talks on the Berlin crisis.

After the meeting, Gromyko told newsmen that he had the "general impression" following his talks here and in Washington that "there is growing understanding between us."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I hate people with the despicable habit of interrupting others in whatever they're doing to read aloud to them funny bits out of a magazine or book.

Nevertheless, I spent all day yesterday doing just that — waylaying alternately my wife and my son to read to them a paragraph here or a page there from a book I was reading.

I just couldn't help myself. It was the funniest book I ever read.

It's called "Look Back, Mrs. Lot!" (Atheneum) by Ephraim Kishon, a columnist for an Israeli newspaper.

Wildly Funny

It's not a book about Israel but a collection of wildly funny pieces about husbands, wives, children, doctors, bureaucrats, do-it-yourselfers, crossword puzzle addicts, social workers, morons, actors, politicians and people in general.

Mr. Kishon—whose name I'd never heard of before—writes the kind of humor that is understood not only by his fellow Jews, but also by North Americans, Greeks, Finns, Sicilians, Peruvians and Eskimos. He is, for my money, the spiritual heir of Mark Twain, Stephen Leacock and Robert Benchley.

Here, for instance, is how a friend of his describes the way to his house:

"Start out from the Mograbi and walk toward the sea until you come to a man in overalls repairing his motorcycle and cursing the government. Turn left and count 22 olive trees; at that point you will become aware of an obnoxious smell.

Waiting There

"Turn to the right and follow a stone wall until you come across the carcass of a tomcat, turn again to the right and walk on until you come to the Yugoslav library facing the cinema, where I'll be waiting for you, because from there on it's rather involved."

Or here is Kishon on the Hebrew language:

"Our country's official language is Hebrew, which is also our children's mother tongue — the world's only mother tongue that mothers learn from their children. Official forms must be filled out in Hebrew, but mostly we read English and speak Yiddish. Learning Hebrew is not more difficult than learning Chinese. It takes the average new immigrant three or four years on the outside until he is able to ask passers-by in fluent Hebrew:

'Could you please tell me what time it is, but in English?'"

Kiwanis Choice

No Ambulance

Injured Forced To Wait

Spectacular one-car crash early Sunday that sent six young people to hospital indicates a need for a change in the city's ambulance service, says police commissioner William Hamilton.

City police, who have responsibility now, quickly had all six in hospital—five at Royal Jubilee and one at St. Joseph's—but to do so had to use police cars, one of them twice.

The crash occurred on Bay Street just east of Blanshard, when a car driven by Jackson Ginger, 22, of Alberni, struck a power pole.

Ginger, suffering a broken jaw and chest injuries, was rushed in the police ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A prowler car took Shirley Thomas, 24, of 2395 Mt. Newton Cross Road, and Josephine Charles, 20, of 7 Cooper Road, both with cuts and shock, to the same hospital.

The reserve ambulance, manned by two more men, took Cecelia Charles, 20, of 7 Cooper Road, to Royal Jubilee with severe cuts to the face and right leg.

The regular police ambulance returned and took Danny Jones, 24, of Port Renfrew, to St. Joseph's with a broken right leg.

The traffic car took William Mitchell, 18, of Port Renfrew, to Royal Jubilee with a possible fracture of the left leg.

Mr. Hamilton said the case shows the need for a proper ambulance on call, capable of carrying four patients.

"With such a vehicle, it and one police car could have handled the whole situation."

Divers Wrestle Devilfish

Twenty-nine devilfish were wrestled to the surface by skindivers competing in Canada's first octopus wrestling competition in Esquimalt during the weekend.

Fifty divers, representing clubs from as far away as Campbell River and Port Alberni, registered for the event, while more than 2,000 spectators lined the shores of Saxe Point Park to watch the struggling participants capture octopus ranging in size from nine to 49 pounds.

Using snorkels for the first two hours, contestants were allowed to wear diving lungs for the final hour only, and the teams were limited to two devilfish per man. Each octopus had to be taken unharmed, and by hand, with demerits awarded for any injuries suffered by the creatures. At the close of the contest, all captured octopus were returned to the water, alive.

Bill Hook, a member of the winning team, Victoria Skin Divers, captured the largest octopus of the day, leading his teammates to victory with a total of 204½ pounds of the tentacled "monsters." The Bohemians, sponsors of the meet, took second place and the Helldivers placed third.

Hubcap Thieves Plead Guilty

Two youths pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court yesterday to theft, Sept. 24, of four hubcaps worth $40.

Leslie Kenneth Cleghorn, 19, and David Cunningham, 18, both of HMCS Naden, were fined $35 each. The hubcaps had been taken from a car parked on Gosper Crescent and put on Cleghorn's car. They were recovered Oct. 7 by Esquimalt police.

In city court Victorian Robert Caruth was fined $50 after pleading guilty to obstructing a city constable. Court was told Caruth had been checked on a city service station lot on Oct. 1 and had caused trouble when asked to leave.

Jarnell Singh, 603 Manchester, was fined $250 and his licence suspended after pleading guilty to impaired driving Sunday afternoon. Police said his car was involved in a collision with another at The Rise and Vista Heights.

More Help on Way To Arab Refugees

Third shipment of used clothing collected by the Victoria Quaker relief organization left Victoria for distribution among Arab refugees yesterday.

The 75 sacks, representing some 4,500 pounds of used clothing, will be distributed through the Oxford committee for famine relief.

Two earlier shipments were used for relief of Algerian refugees in Tunisia and Morocco.

This year's total of five tons of used clothing from Victoria has been shipped free of charge by Furness, Withy and Co.

A large amount of yesterday's shipment was supplied by Goodwill Enterprises.

No Letup In Demands

Oak Bay outside workers have not abandoned their efforts to get a 1961 working contract as reported recently.

Council had remained firm in its determination to hold the line on wages this year despite a conciliation board recommendation for a slight pay increase.

The problem will be discussed by the union during a general meeting in the municipal hall at 7.30 p.m. today.

Normal Babies Despite Transplanted Tissue

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have endometriosis. How does this prevent pregnancy? Does it affect a baby when one is pregnant?—Mrs. S. M."

The lining of the uterus is called the endometrium. Normally this lining first thickens then sloughs off as a woman goes through the menstrual cycle. It then thickens again.

However, sometimes this curious tissue appears elsewhere in the abdominal area. It may attach to the ovaries, bladder, inner abdominal wall, bowel. How it does so is not understood.

After it becomes "transplanted," it still obeys the cyclic changes, thickening, sloughing off, thickening again, in response to the normal changes in ovarian hormones.

Endometriosis is mainly found in women in their 30s or older, and not in young girls. This "transplanted" tissue may to some degree block the route by which the ovum reaches the uterus. Therefore it can prevent pregnancy or else make it difficult.

However, if pregnancy does occur, endometriosis has no effect on the baby at all. It is featured by increasingly painful menstrual periods—which is why this condition does not occur in young girls.

Treatment varies widely, depending on the severity and extent of the trouble. In many cases administration of certain hormones is an adequate solution.

In extreme cases, removal of the ovaries is advisable.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is Parkinson's Disease curable? —A. P. H."

It can be controlled. I prefer not to say "cured."

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl, 16, and have been dieting spasmodically. I have noticed that recently I have a tendency to bruise very easily. Could it be due to some vitamin or mineral deficiency?—B. B."

I have noticed for many years that "dieting" too often includes avoidance of milk. Milk contains calcium—which is necessary in rapid healing of bruises. So don't omit milk, skim milk if you choose. Be sure you include citrus fruits or juices daily.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything be done for bunions other than an operation? — Mrs. B. B."

Generally, yes—wider shoes; appropriate arch supports. But some cases are so extreme surgery is the only answer.

* * *

"Dear Mr: How does smoking stunt a person's growth?—E. R."

It doesn't, but if you want reasons for not smoking, there are enough others that have been demonstrated.

'Bold Aims Shared'

Britain Impresses Market Leaders

PARIS (Reuters)—Edward Heath, Britain's deputy foreign minister, opened negotiations for British entry to the European Common Market Tuesday with a speech to "the six" in which he said Britain shares the aims of their "bold and imaginative ventures."

Heath said satisfactory solutions would have to be found to three problems—Commonwealth trade, British agriculture and the British-led European Free Trade Association.

BY PROTOCOLS

But he said these could be dealt with by protocols and would not call for amendment of the 1957 Rome Treaty which established the six-nation Common Market.

Asked at a press conference later how long negotiations would last, he said: "One can never be sure of the length of negotiations but we are thinking in terms of several months, not several years."

GOOD IMPRESSION

Heath's statement to the foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg made a good impression, conference sources said.

"The reactions of the six have been entirely favorable," said a Dutch delegate.

SECRETARIAT AGREED

Tuesday's ministerial meeting was a preliminary to full negotiations which start in Brussels Nov. 8 and 9. The ministers agreed Tuesday to set up a seven-nation secretariat in Brussels before then.

Heath told the foreign ministers Britain would not ask for a longer transition period for full application of the Rome Treaty, although Britain's position was more complex and the adjustment would be more complicated.

LISTENERS CONVINCED

The Rome Treaty provided for a 15-year transition period to achieve complete free trade and free movement of labor and capital within the Common Market.

Observers said Heath convinced his listeners that Britain had come to negotiate determined to share in political and economic objectives and seek the widest possible measure of European unity.

TO FOLLOW SUIT

The Common Market council of ministers will meet in Brussels Nov. 6 and 7—before the full negotiations with Britain.

With Britain inside the Common Market, it is expected here that most of the other six members of the rival European Free Trade Association will follow suit, making the greatest economic unit the world has ever seen.

It would have 217,000,000 people compared with the United States' 180,000,000 and Russia's 212,000,000.

Tokyo Grows And Grows

TOKYO (Reuters) — Tokyo municipal officials said Tuesday the Japanese capital's population hit a total of 9,924,453 at the end of September, an increase of 1,911 over August.

Focus on Freedom Fooled Red Guards

BERLIN (Reuters)—An East Berlin press photographer has escaped to West Berlin by sliding across the border while sighting his camera on a propaganda assignment.

Photographer Horst Beyer, taking pictures of women athletes giving bouquets to Communist border police, moved toward the frontier with his camera still pointed at the group. Then he ran for it.

Outer Mongolia Issue

Nationalists Won't Use Veto

TAIPE (UPI) — Nationalist Chinese officials have told foreign diplomats China will not veto the application of Communist Outer Mongolia for United Nations membership, diplomatic sources said yesterday.

SEAT AT STAKE

The Nationalists still oppose the admission of the Soviet-backed Asian state, but have decided after much pressure and persuasion that a veto could cost the Nationalists their own UN seat, the sources said.

AFRICAN ISSUE

The Outer Mongolia application is linked to that of the African nation of Mauritania. A Nationalist veto of Outer Mongolia would cause a Soviet veto of Mauritania. The result could be African resentment against China and the consequent support of the 12-nation Brazzaville group of African nations for Communist China.

In the United Nations, Western circles welcomed the reported Nationalist decision. They were confident the action would prevent Communist China from gaining admittance to the United Nations for at least another year.

Envoy Told FBI Agent He Sneaked Document

WASHINGTON (AP) — An FBI agent testified Tuesday that Irvin C. Scarbeck told him he sneaked one secret document out of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw to be photographed by Polish agents.

Scarbeck, 41, is on trial in U.S. district court on charges of giving four classified papers to Polish agents. At the time of the alleged offence last year, he was second secretary of the embassy.

Patrick Rice, FBI agent who interviewed Scarbeck on his return to the U.S., also quoted him as saying that aside from the one document which he took out of the embassy, he tried to give the Poles garbled and inaccurate information.

Rice also repeated the story other government witnesses have related — that Scarbeck told them he was blackmailed into co-operating with the Poles after Polish police photographed him in a compromising situation with a Polish girl, Ursula Discher, 22.

Margaret Welcomes Gifts

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret will waive the royal ban on accepting presents and accept clothing for her first baby expected around the end of the month, it was disclosed yesterday. No gifts from commercial undertakings will be accepted, said Maj. John Griffin, her press secretary, "but baby clothes from private well-wishers and charitable organizations all will be most welcome," he said.

Colonial Complexity

ONE OF THE few subjects on which the United States and the Soviet Union seem to agree is that an annual debate should be held in the UN General Assembly for the purpose of denouncing colonialism.

Though it may be supposed that the objectives of the two great rival powers are identical in seeking the abolition of colonialism throughout the world, their reasons for desiring it are widely different.

In supporting the cause, the U.S.S.R. aim is twofold: firstly, through the withdrawal of colonial authority the way is opened to it for a further extension of Communist influence in many areas, and secondly, it derives great political advantage from the fact that the subject is one of potential and, to a degree, explosive disagreement between the Western Allies—some of whom are colonial powers.

On the other hand the anti-colonial attitude of the United States is solely one of principle. Matching the situation of the day to its past history, the American government is dedicated to the belief that independence, liberty and freedom are synonymous.

Pledged as it is to the propagation of this lofty ideal the United States appears determined to spare neither its friends nor its enemies in its militant approach to what is in reality a vexatious and complicated problem.

Laudable though its pursuit may be in this field of internationalism, the Washington administration's chosen course may result in bringing about a dangerous situation unless it is tempered with understanding and patience.

This is particularly noticeable with regard to its attitude toward the present British colonies and protectorates.

Since the Second World War Great Britain has given independence to territories with a combined population of more than 600 millions. By the end of the year the independence of Tanganyika will add another ten millions to this total to leave only some 30 millions still under British colonial rule.

The United Kingdom government has promised that these remaining millions will be granted independence as soon as possible. But much remains to be done. As Mr. Duncan Sandys, British Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, has stated: "It must, however, be realized that as we get near the end, we are left with all the most difficult cases. On the one hand there are territories with multi-racial populations and on the other those which are not economically viable on their own."

Yet neither this frank statement nor the countless others submitted privately to Washington by Whitehall have done anything to widen the American appreciation of the complexity of the British position regarding her few remaining colonial territories.

It is a peculiar commentary on British-American relations that the United States government consistently chooses Britain out of all the still existing so-called Imperialist powers for its most bitter criticism—either by indirect inference from Washington or by direct interference within the colonies themselves.

Without in any way calling for the United States to relax its vigilance on behalf of the free peoples of the world, Washington would be well advised to accept the testimony of 600 million souls that Britain holds to her word, and to realign its sights on half-a-dozen other targets far more deserving of its broadsides.

The Wrong Forum

IT IS a new development, and an unfortunate one, that religion should be made an issue in civic affairs. Not only because it raises one of the most ticklish questions the world has ever known—history is ample proof of that—but because a person's faith is a purely personal and in many cases a precious and individual prerogative.

Even in a Christian civilization a person of no faith has the same right to have his non-beliefs respected. There are legitimate avenues for the non-compulsive persuasion of such individuals to this or that denomination, but the city council is not one of them.

It is recognized that an individual's political beliefs are his alone, and in the free Christian society to which we belong that it is an invasion of his freedom that he should in any way be forced to disclose them if he prefers not to. How much more surely are a person's religious beliefs sacred to him alone.

Nothing but harm can follow the pursuit of religious questioning where the aldermanic board is concerned. The subject could widen into undesirable and unhappy controversy far exceeding the present limits. Aldermen would do well to realize this, and to appreciate the damage it might do to religious beliefs in general.

Filling the Ranks

A REPORT from Ottawa says that the armed forces are getting all the recruits they need. If there is no big rush to put on a uniform more than enough are applying to meet the ceiling intake recently increased.

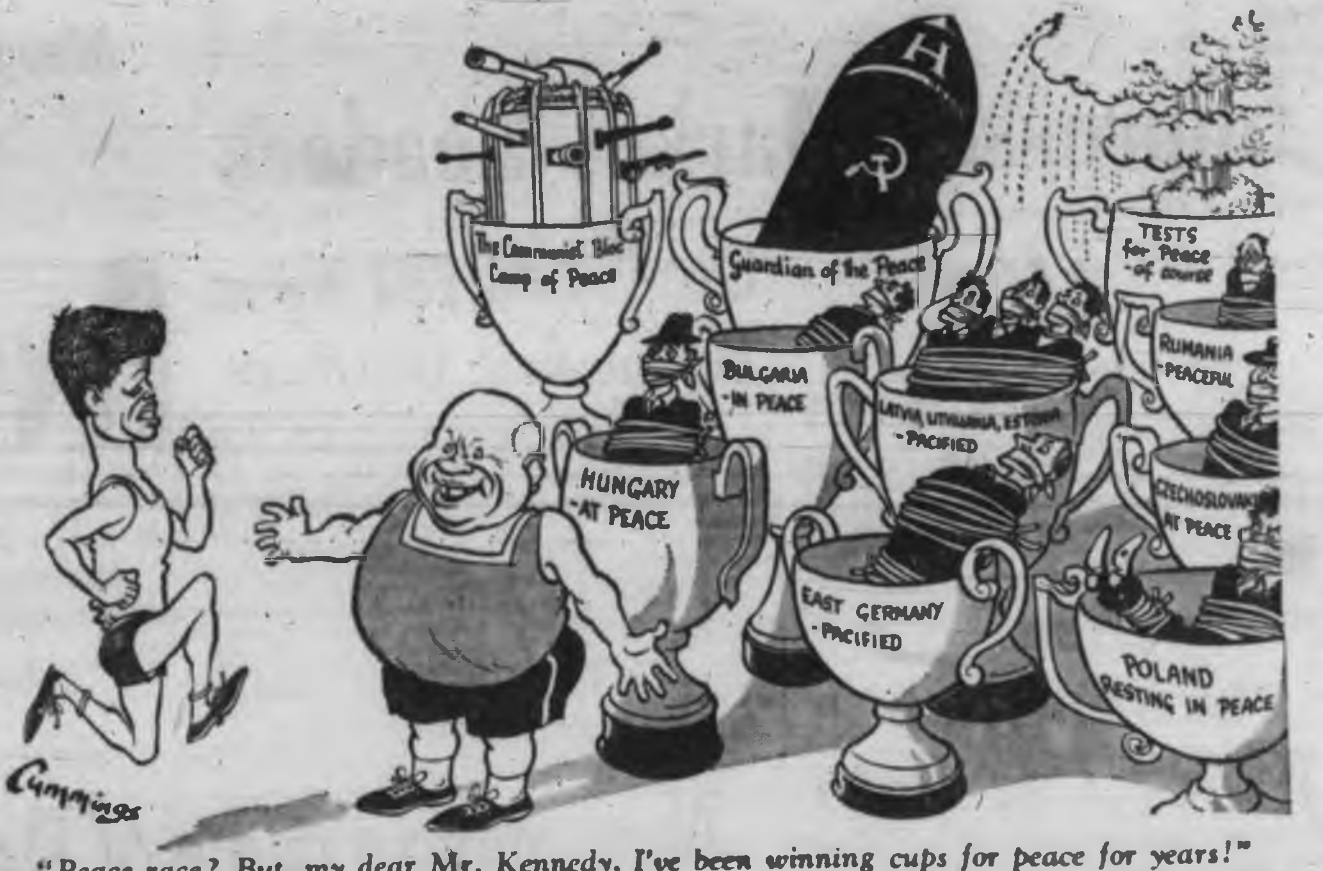
This isn't surprising. Service in the armed forces offers an attractive and interesting career. It is well paid also and the amenities and conditions of service far outstrip those of previous eras. Young men can adopt much less desirable professions.

It was announced two months ago that the Canadian armed forces would be increased by 15,000 to a total of 135,000 personnel. Spread around the army, navy and air force this can scarcely be deemed extravagant. Nor does it suggest that Canada is overly militarily conscious.

It is one thing to say the permissible totals may be raised but another of course to fill the gap. Apparently, however, no difficulties are being encountered. The waiting lists exceed the number of vacancies; a happy situation for the services.

One doleful note may perhaps be recorded. The Esquimalt establishment that catered to the "Wrens" of the RCN has been decommissioned. Whether this means the girls have lost interest in naval life or their male counterparts have taken over their clerical duties one does not know, but the loss is the RCN's.

If as the song says all the nice girls love a sailor then surely all the nice boys love a sailorette. A touch of romance goes as the "Wrens" depart.



"Peace race? But, my dear Mr. Kennedy, I've been winning cups for peace for years!"

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax. . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

A LITTLE item that comes to my notice suggests that it was Satan who invented brandy. He must be disappointed these days for this beverage has put on respectability; it is no longer a best-seller.

It seems that the Father of Evil was once outwitted by a German who imprisoned him in a tree. When the tree was cut down the Devil stepped out to find his domain empty of his supporters, so he set about re-peopling it. He started a distillery and invented brandy, and for a long time never had to complain of lack of subjects.

Now that brandy is displaced as a popular potion by other tempting liquid treats, perhaps he seeks revenge. Patrons who allege that liquor boards put water in their drinks might at least be inclined to think so.

* * *

It can be argued I suppose that he still has lots of supporters but the gilt is off the devil's gingerbread, nevertheless. He fell from grace when his capital D slipped down into lower case, as the printers put it. Once medieval superstition died a natural death the notion that he was a live figure prancing around with horns, a tail, and red tights rather disappeared also.

He remains the personification of evil, of course, a fellow to stay clear of, which no doubt is sufficient for his vanity no matter what form he takes. He left his distinctive mark, too. Sophistication has not put his name out of circulation.

Indeed man's vocabulary is studded with references to "the devil," just as though the human conscience had never recovered from his impact. Actually I don't think it has. "Go to the devil," says one man to another when he loses an argument and thus, as a last resort, utters the most devastating remark he can think of.

Quite probably the devil lurks nearby with anticipatory arms open like a baseball catcher's.

It cannot be for nothing that we adjure someone to "tell the truth and shame the devil," or suggest to another that there will be "the very devil to pay" if he doesn't mend his ways. There must be a lingering realization that the devil's domain is a good place to avoid, whether the red tights have been discarded or not.

And yet sometimes, it seems, we look on him half-affectionately.

* * *

"Talk of the devil and he is sure to appear" is a common expression, used more often than not when some quite undevilish friend comes along just as we have mentioned his name; we have no thought to deem him satanic in any particular. We go so far in fact as to affirm on occasion that "the devil is not so black as he is painted," forgetting his traditional red hue and implying he is more sinned against than sinning.

Charles Wesley, indeed, rather envied the devil of his possessions, as when he exclaimed "Why should the devil have all the good tunes," and promptly pre-empted the hit songs of his day and set his hymns to their music. The devil, one hopes, felt suitably deprived and has never got over his loss to this day; although, listening to some of the sounds that come over the air, one doubts this. Obviously the devil is a resourceful chap; and if he could invent brandy it would be no trick at all to invent pop tunes.

Come to think of it he may be at the bottom of the enervating miasma of so-called music that afflicts us today.

New Ideas on

West Indies Partnership

By JOHN CROCKER, from Trinidad

SINCE the people of Jamaica voted in the referendum of September 19 to leave the Federation of the West Indies, which was due to become fully independent on May 31 next year, the feeling here in the federal capital has been one of uncertainty coupled with the obstinate belief that this fledgling nation has not yet been dealt a death blow.

Pro-federationists here take comfort from the fact that only 60.44 per cent of Jamaicans voted in the referendum and that the majority in favor of secession was only 35,535 out of a total of 474,759 votes cast. They also point out that the West Indies — by which is meant the British island territories of the Caribbean Sea — having been in some form of association for generations, are unlikely now to sever all their connections.

An analysis of the reasons for Jamaica's decision to secede shows clearly that the pattern of events which has been taking place in the Federation of the Rhodesias and Nyasaland has had its counterpart in the Caribbean. This, briefly, is that when a dependent territory is on the way to throwing off domination of a colonial power, it does not want to have its new independence fettered by another central authority. Mr. Norman Manley, leader of the People's National Party, and Jamaica's premier since 1955, had been telling Jamaicans for almost a quarter of a century that what they must strive for was to make Jamaica an independent nation within the British Commonwealth.

This meant that, when power was transferred from London, it should go to Kingston, not to a rather remote federal capital in Trinidad, or any other West Indian island. In the same way the Northern Rhodesian nationalists want power transferred from London to Lusaka, and not to Salisbury.

* * *

Both Mr. Manley and, to a lesser extent, Sir Alexander Bustamante (at present leader of the opposition Jamaica Labor Party) hammered this doctrine into Jamaicans for years, and it stuck in the people's minds.

However, when the idea of Jamaica's joining a federation of nine other British territories began to take formal shape about a decade ago, Mr. Manley took the view that such a plan would benefit Jamaica, and, accordingly, he gave it his support. So, originally, though to a lesser extent, did Sir Alexander.

Then, in the last two or three years, the possible adverse effects of federation on Jamaica's protected economy began to be given serious consideration. Economic factors thus added their weight to political factors, and Sir Alexander, who had become forthright anti-federationist in the past two years, was able to harness the two and so wreck Mr. Manley's more theoretical (and, in the view of many, more long-sighted) view of what was best for Jamaica and the West Indies as a whole.

In the meantime, the federation must continue until the Constitution is formally altered, and observers here feel that this may give a breathing space for new ideas to take shape. One of these ideas is that Trinidad, Barbados and the seven other smaller territories in the Windwards and Leewards should combine in a strong centrally controlled federation with the capital in Trindad, as now.

Nothing, clearly, can be done about this project without Trinidad, which contributes 38.3 per ceht of the revenue of the existing federation and which has a greater per capita income than Jamaica, though its population is roughly half (830,000 compared with 1,700,000). The present prime minister of the federation, Sir Grantley Adams of Barbados, has hinted in recent statements that he would be in favor of such a federation.

The view is also expressed here that there is a possibility of Jamaica's joining some sort of confederation with the federation of the seven territories of the eastern Caribbean—if it came into being. It is pointed out that there are already in existence many regional services which it is desirable to maintain. There is the University College of the West Indies, with campuses in both Jamaica and Trinidad. There is the West India Regiment, which it was intended to strengthen from one to two battalions; there are two ships each of 1,500 tons which ply between the islands wearing the federal flag; plans are now being drawn up for the establishment of a small federal navy. These, and other services, it is felt, Jamaica might wish to retain, but on the basis of being a member of a confederation rather than a federation.

There is a further possibility now being discussed that the two British territories of the mainland, British Guiana and British Honduras, might be willing to join such a confederation. The picture would then be a confederation of four units in the Caribbean—Jamaica, British Guiana, British Honduras, and the Federation of the seven eastern territories.

It is, in any case, considered here to be far too early to classify the West Indies Federation as a "Nation Which Might Have Been." The thinking is, rather, concerned with what it still might be.

Sombre Second Look

The Red China Problem

By ARTHUR BLAKELY, from Washington

THE Kennedy administration appears to be taking a long, sombre second look at U.S. foreign policy as it applies to Red China.

No abrupt, dramatic changes seem to be likely. The political climate in the United States is thought to rule out any such possibility. What does seem possible, however, is a slow, cautious and gradual reorientation.

Already some signs of this have begun to appear.

The U.S. has withdrawn its opposition to consideration at this session of the UN General Assembly of the admission of Red China to the United Nations. A prime reason for this back-pedalling was the fact that the U.S. might well have lost the vote on the issue, in any event. But to some extent, at least, a feeling that it is no longer practical to try to isolate Communist China from the rest of the world in general and from the UN in particular may have contributed to the decision.

Official and unofficial U.S. reaction to Canada's huge wheat sales to Red China has been calm and moderate. A few years ago, such a development would have created a severe disturbance in U.S.-Canadian relations. Americans react to the sales in two ways. One is that there can't be very much wrong with any move which makes food available to starving people, even where these people are supporters of a Communist China. Another is that the Canadian and Australian wheat sales may relieve the pressure on Mao's China to seek to relieve food shortages by conquest in south and southeast Asia.

In Washington, at least, what opposition there is seems to be limited to right-wing members of the Congress. And even here the Canadian wheat sale is regarded with reluctant admiration by some as a shrewd stroke of business.

* * *

Much more important, it is understood that the U.S. has quietly put out feelers in Asia on the general subject of American recognition of the government of the Chinese mainland. The results, it is said, haven't been encouraging. The only condition on which Red China is interested in securing U.S. recognition, it is reported, is that of complete American withdrawal from Asia.

Nor is Red China interested in the slightest degree, according to Washington informants, in alleviating its food shortage by accepting food gifts from the U.S. The possibility is said to have been explored and to have been nullified by the determination of Red China to avoid any loss of face by accepting help from a prime enemy.

In both administration and congressional circles, there is a disposition to regard Red China as the most serious threat to peace confronting the western democracies in the years ahead.

There is general agreement here that precisely because China is a late convert to Marxism and Communism, the special brand which it has concocted differs from the Russian in much heavier admixtures of zeal, aggressiveness, and dynamism. There is agreement, too, that Chinese Communists are much readier than their Russian counterparts to indulge in breathtaking experiments in brinkmanship which could conceivably unleash a nuclear holocaust.

* * *

China's determination to become a world nuclear power as a matter of pride is accepted everywhere. U.S. defence authorities say they wouldn't be surprised to hear that Red China had exploded her first nuclear bomb for test purposes next year, next month or, for that matter, tomorrow.

American policy authorities point to the venerable history of Chinese imperialism. China, they say, has been plagued throughout its history by domestic food supplies which, in times of flood, drought or other natural disasters, falls far short of meeting the requirements of its large population. Accordingly China, when favored with a strong central government, has tended to spill over its borders into the food-rich but often politically unstable areas of southeast Asia.

Even Soviet Russia, according to one very popular U.S. theory, is beginning to look nervously over its shoulder, at her Chinese friends and allies. Russia, too, has valuable properties along the Chinese periphery. U.S. diplomats haven't been at all backward about making sly references to their Soviet counterparts bearing on this point. At one time, they say today, the Russians wouldn't listen to us. But today? Well, it's a different matter entirely.

The small "l" liberals surrounding President Kennedy make no secret of their conviction that U.S. policy with respect to Red China must be up-dated. Although they see little or no possibility that such developments would accomplish much over the short term or medium term towards improving U.S.-Chinese relations, they tend to favor U.S. recognition and admission of China into the U.N. (on a two-China basis by which the Chinese Nationalists would still be recognized as the government in Formosa).

But such changes could not be achieved in the near future as matters stand. No question arouses in the United States a response quite as emotional as that surrounding Red China. Many reasons are cited for this, not least of them China's entry into the Korean war and the treatment of U.S. prisoners. U.S. hostility towards Russia is a dull thing by comparison. Congress, too, is suspicious and alert for signs of a "softer" attitude towards Red China. And any such attitude would be costly politically. The China lobby, too, is still alive.

But for all of that, the disposition in the U.S. to accept slow, useful policy changes seems to be much greater than it was a few years ago. A start, accordingly, may be made.

Learning To Loiter

By CASSANDRA

THE Americans influence the British more than the British influence the Americans.

We imitate their films, their clothes, their food, their cars, their conversation.

But at times they imitate us.

In Chicago—of all places—the Housing Authority are trying to make their public houses ("saloons," they call them) like English pubs.

It is a nice theme.

In the land of drive and hustle and pace they are trying to learn to loiter.

The art of loitering is dying out on this side of the Atlantic, too. We are forgetting how to "linger on the way and to travel indolently with frequent pauses."

The Monthly Bulletin (published by the brewing industry) points out how the design of our New Towns like Stevenage fails to design for loitering.

"There is not enough in the way of cinemas, restaurants and other places of entertainment to draw people in.

"The distances and the transport between the Centre and the housing are presumably not quite right.

"The glory of the English hamlet is that it just growed like Topsy and growed right. The later industrial towns growed wrong."

* * *

A CURIOUS piece of history about the late and not deeply lamented Seantor Joseph McCarthy has come my way.

McCarthy rocketed to notoriety on a speech he made in which he said: "I have here in my hand the names of fifty-seven card-carrying Communists in the State Department."

McCarthy himself did not write the speech.

A Hollywood screen-writer did.

McCarthy had not got a list of "card-carrying Communists" and in fact in the early days was not really interested in Communism.

His pet project at the time was very different.

He was upset that eggs were stored in caves in Kentucky and he felt that they should be sent overseas as part of American aid.

He stumbled on the Red witchhunt by accident and, when it started, he couldn't let go.

I think it would have been better for a lot of people—including Senator Joseph McCarthy — if he had stuck to Kentuckian eggs in caves.

* * *

THESE are the days of chic abbreviations and diminutives. I have just heard of an interesting example.

It is a miniature hearse called—yes, you've guessed it —a "hearsette."

At first I thought that this was a funeral vehicle for dwarfs only.

But no. It is a teeny weeny coffin-carrier for the likes of us.

In the words of the delighted maker, it is an "adaption of a standard Ford estate car and can be changed from a normal estate car to a hearse in three minutes by simply removing the full-width rear seat back rest completely, lifting in the bier, and fastening it to two floor-mounted plates with thumb screws and fitting it in the two small rear squabs."

Don't forget: the "hearsette" is for full-size corpses—not corpsettes.

* * *

THERE is a rather nice mixed up announcement in the Brecon and Radnor County Express.

It announces that in Llandrindod Wells the Grand Pavilion Cinema is "closed on Wednesday for Church Governing Body Conference. The Lash—The Fury—The Passion—The Spectacle."

I say, steady, chaps.

Dogs, or a Dog?

By GREGORY CLARK

AT a tea party, a young woman astonished me, referring to a man I know very well, by saying he didn't like dogs.

"He seems like a very decent sort of fellow," she said, "but he doesn't like dogs. That puts me off him."

Now I know very well that the man in question likes dogs very much, has always owned a dog in the house, and has a share in some black Labrador retrievers which he and some companions train and hunt.

A few minutes later at the tea party, I was chatting with another guest who is a friend of the young woman; and I mentioned casually that she seemed very fond of dogs.

"Well," said the friend, "she's very fond of that mutt of a terrier she has, the worst dog you ever saw. Barks like a lunatic all the time, jumps up all over you when you visit, tries to be the life of the party, the most spoiled brat of a dog I know."

"Ah," said I.

The Bachelors

Could there be some basic reason for our young men of Victoria grouping together so noticeably for their general entertainment?

Have our young girls become so materialistic, style conscious, and assumably selfish that this particular change is gradually taking place?

Can the boys not afford the compionship of our girls for car rides, baseball games, shows—or even cocktails? Has our glittering mode of living somewhat frightened the young men into premature bachelorhood? Or have we the parents lost the art of welcoming these young people into our homes?

Who is to blame for this apparent "Amazon trend" to rear it's ugly head?

Couldn't Handle It

We hear much comment these days about fallout shelters but I think it's time we faced facts. If an atom bomb of the size that was used on Japan was exploded over Victoria, the city being almost completely built of wood, everything within a quarter of a mile of the explosion would instantly burst into flames. If the fire departments were 10 times as big as they are now they could never hope to handle a conflagration of this kind; and who is going to stay in a basement shelter with the house burning down over their head.

Front-Line Shelters

Re the letter written by Mr. John Matters in your paper a few days ago on behalf of Mr. Mackenzie, late of the 16th Can. Scott: I cannot understand how shelters could be built on the front lines. Being a soldier of the same regiment for many months, during my time we had no shelters from shrapnel only our trenches. In the early days of the war we cooked on the parapet, such as tea, slice of bacon with hard tack—bread if you had any. I was wounded at Sanctuary Wood, June 1916, returning to France just after Vimy, later on with the Machine Gun Corps. Seeing the game through up to Germany.

Ugly and Bare

The Glenn Miller-Tex Beneke Band was wonderful last Saturday. However, I paid $3 to sit on a hard, dirty bench (the $3.50 seats were merely a few rows of chairs in the centre) and it made me more disgusted than ever to think Victoria has no better for visiting bands, etc.

The whole atmosphere is ugly and bare, which may be all right for hockey matches. Certainly it is time something was done about an auditorium which is most essential in any city. Why waste money on useful fountains? It could be much better spent on something by which everyone would agree. I'm sure there are many who will agree with me.

Prolonging Life

Well, the cartoons today (Oct. 8) are priceless. Now, even though I expect few may agree with me, yet I trust I am wrong in thinking so, may I say I was delighted there would be no paper on Tuesday. I hope such sensible arrangements will help to lengthen the lives of all connected with your very fine paper, so that they will not be apt to die at an early age, as so many do in progressive California, where men frequently drop dead in their forties.

I consider so many have had to contend with so much during first half of their lives, they should be able to live a long time to enjoy leisure, to read, fish, garden, meditate, etc., if their governments will only exercise their craniums to find a way to let them.

Former Victorian Survives Crash

DAWSON CREEK, BC (CP)—The survivor of a plane crash was in hospital here yesterday, while the bodies of two men who died inside it were found later by RCMP and flown to Dawson Creek by helicopter.

Tom Humble, 44-year-old father of six, who is president of the chamber of commerce here, suffered severe burns to his hands and feet when the Piper PA12 crashed Friday morning on a flight from Hudson Hope to Dawson Creek, a distance of about 50 miles.

Killed when the craft went into a "screaming power dive" during a snowstorm were the pilot, Ron McAuliffe, and Walter Murphy, editor of the Dawson Creek Star.

The plane burned on impact in dense bush and muskeg near Jackfish Lake, 65 miles west of here.

The crash came as the trio returned from the site of B.C. Electric Company's proposed dam on the Peace River. They had been interviewing Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the company, who was on a flying visit to the area Thursday.

Humble said he had expected to die.

"It was one long nightmare," he said. "Only a miracle and prayers saved me." He said that for two days and a night he watched Murphy and McAuliffe slowly die.

Humble said that after the plane exploded he clawed his way from the wreckage and smothered his burning clothes in snow.

His companions were "horribly burned, but alive."

He had no food or matches, and, as his body blistered from burns, he dug pits in the snow for his dying companions.

Late Friday night McAuliffe died, and Murphy pleaded for Humble to go.

The father of six softly pressed handfuls of snow against his companion's parched lips—then Saturday afternoon Murphy died.

Sunday he stumbled out on a logging road, collapsed and prayed for help.

Mr. Humble was a resident of Victoria for two years, leaving here in 1950. He was employed by the British Columbia Power Commission as assistant superintendent of power districts.

Union Nationale

Business with Party Worth $1,379,000

QUEBEC (CP)—The son of a Union Nationale party official testified Tuesday that his office supplies firm did 90 per cent of its business with the Union Nationale government totalling about $1,379,000 in a five-year period.

Robert Martineau, 35, son of Gerald Martineau, Union Nationale party treasurer and member of the Legislative Council—Quebec's upper house—testified before the Salvas royal commission into purchasing practices under the UN.

The inquiry covers a five-year period from July 1, 1955, to July 1, 1960.

Robert Martineau said his firm, which occupies the same building as a similar company run by his father, was able to give the provincial government discounts ranging from five to 17 per cent on sales of typewriters and adding machines.

"When I did not have the material required, my father sold it to me at cost price," he said.

The commission has heard testimony from witnesses who said they received kickbacks on sales of paint, heavy machinery and some materials to the government.

Officials of several companies testified last spring their prices would have been lower if they had not been forced to pay kickbacks on their sales.

Edouard Masson, lawyer for the Union Nationale, asked Martineau if his firm still sells to the government, which has been under Liberal administration since the June, 1960, provincial election.

SALES DIMINISHED

"Oh no," replied Martineau. Later, commmission chairman Mr. Justice Elie Salvas asked Martineau if he has remained in the same business since the election.

"Yes," came the reply. "Sales have diminished, however."

Martineau is to return to the stand today with documents and price lists of Remington products for which he has an agency in Quebec City.

Uganda Gets Freedom Next Year

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's East African protectorate of Uganda will get internal self-government for its 6,000,000 people next March and become fully independent the following October, it was officially announced here.

These advances to self-rule were announced in a communique at the end of a Uganda constitutional conference which began here Sept. 18.

Benedicto Kiwanuka, chief minister of Uganda, told reporters: "The conference has been a tremendous success for democracy."

He said that 99 per cent of the new constitution agreed at the conference was "good stuff" and added: "One per cent is bad but that cannot be made a basis for throwing it out."

All Aboard Die In Helicopter

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI)—A U.S. army helicopter crashed and burned near Hohenfels, West Germany, apparently killing all aboard, an army spokesman said.

Aged Woman Lost in North

THE PAS, Man. (UPI)—Two RCAF craft and a ground search party of RCMP are combing the bush near this northern community for an elderly woman missing four days. Mrs. Emily Telly, believed between 75 and 80 years old, wandered away Friday from her home about three miles from here.

"Well it's about time! Oatmeal flavor and goodness in a light flake cereal ...trust Post for something better!"

It's breakfast news all over the country! Post's newest discovery—and yours—the light approach to the hearty goodness of nature's most nutritious grain. Oat Flakes . . . light, crisp—ready to eat—with milk a good source of protein—and with that wonderful "nothing in the world like it" oatmeal flavor! Pop a package of Post Oat Flakes in your shopping basket—it'll make your family want to sing "All Post cereals happen to be just a little bit better."

Tobaccos In Demand At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Wide gains by tobaccos and electronics inspired an irregular stock market to a late buying wave.

The rally in tobaccos was sparked by early strength in the new, recently-split stocks of Reynolds Tobacco which ended with a gain of 3⅛ on fairly heavy volume. Lorillard rose 2⅝.

Liggett and Myers 2⅞, American Tobacco 1¼, and Philip Morris 1.

Rally at Close

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market recovered from day-long lethargy to finish strongly ahead.

The industrial swing upward was led by papers, banks and utilities, with gains ranging to a point.

The day's worst group was refining oils. Losses to ⅛ were suffered by Canadian Oil, Imperial, Interprovincial, Texaco, Trans-Canada and Trans-Mountain.

In senior base metals, Labrador, Rio Algom, Noranda, Denison, Falconbridge and International Nickel rose as much as ¾. Ventures, Opemiska and Quemont all fell in a low range.

In weak western oil trading, Pacific Petroleum, Dome and Great Plains all fell in the ⅛ to ⅝ range.

* * *

Papers Move Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials led a strong late afternoon rally.

International Paper led an upward swing in papers, with a rise of ⅞ at 39⅝. Bathurst "B" at 39 and Donohue Brothers at 24 both advanced ¾. B.C. Forest and Maclaren "B" each added ½ and Price gained ¼ at 51.

Among the utilities, Power Corporation rose 1⅛ at 57⅞.

In banks, Royal rose 1½ at 78.

Among the industrials, Traders Finance "A" advanced one point at 57½, Standard and Structural Steel lost ¾ at 8¾ and Moore Corporation improved ¼ at 51½.

RIVAL FOR B.C.

Work is starting this week on the construction of a $30,000,000 newsprint mill at Whitecourt, near Edmonton. It will be owned by Alberta West Newsprint Mills Ltd. and will produce 300 tons a day from local low-cost pulpwood.

OIL RATE DROPS

Crude oil production in Alberta fell to 392,002 barrels a day in the week ending Oct. 2, compared with the 459,056 barrels a day average for September.

The drop in production was due to lower refinery demands.

'Big Discount Era' Gathers Momentum

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

"Discount" is the magic word for consumers in the United States. Value Line Investment Survey of New York in its current report says the public is flocking to stores offering branded merchandise at less than list price.

Because the customer is always right, the "discount era" is gathering momentum, and the discount business which started on big-ticket hard goods has spread in the U.S. to the full line of retail merchandising.

Value Lines says the roster of major retail companies which have ventured, or are venturing, into the discount field are the leading department stores, mail order companies, variety and grocery chains.

Even the shoe companies are climbing aboard by leasing space for their wares in discount houses on a self-service basis.

The big American food chains are likely to do best in the discount field, predicts Value Line, and it warns that competition among the discount houses has become intense and that only the strongest best managed companies will survive.

HEAVY GAS LOSSES

Another heavy net loss of $3,697,307 was suffered by Quebec Natural Gas in the year ended June 30. The amount however was an improvement on the previous year's loss of $5,461,543, and the operating loss was cut from $2,719,889 a year ago to $210,217.

The accumulated deficit of Quebec Natural Gas now stands at $13,777,402, but G. O. Maddock, president says vigorous steps are being taken to arrest further deterioration in the financial position.

He warns however that a better rate structure and more favorable terms for the purchase of gas are needed before the company can hope to straighten out its finances.

Anti-freeze loss like this is a great nuisance—expensive, too. Shellzone anti-freeze is guaranteed against loss. If it does leak, Shellzone is replaced free.

IRONCLAD GUARANTEE:

All Shell stations are now authorized to give their customers this remarkable new anti-freeze guarantee: "Free refill if Shellzone leaks away— no matter how you lose it"

Once your car's cooling system has been okayed at a Shell station and Shellzone anti-freeze installed—that's it. If the anti-freeze leaks or loses its strength before next May 1st, it will be replaced without charge.

Any Shell station in Canada or the United States will do the job.

THE SHELLZONE GUARANTEE is ironclad. Once a Shell serviceman has inspected your car's cooling system and refilled with fresh Shellzone, you won't spend a cent more on anti-freeze all winter long.

If you lose Shellzone anti-freeze for any cause under the sun, Shell will replace it free. There are no exceptions. A leak, malicious damage, a faulty part, evaporation—all are included.

This remarkable pledge will be honoured at any Shell station in Canada or the United States—right up to next May 1st.

The disadvantages of pouring your own

People who pour in anti-freeze for themselves have no such guarantee against added expense. They have to reconcile themselves to other disadvantages, too.

First, there's the risk of leakage—which can take place under conditions that might surprise you. Virtually all major brands of anti-freeze have a lower surface tension than water. As a result, anti-freeze can sometimes seep out through tiny holes and cracks that are absolutely leakproof when you have plain water in your cooling system.

Complete cooling system check

Before a Shell service man puts in your anti-freeze, he checks the entire system for potential leaks. He checks hoses, clamps, plugs, drain cocks, water pump, radiator. Eleven points in all, including every connection. Not a drop of Shellzone goes in until he's sure it won't leak out.

The overdose danger

Here's another surprising fact. Did you know that too much anti-freeze can have the same effect as too little? Here's what happens when you begin to add anti-freeze. As you would expect, at first the freezing point of the mixture goes down. But as you pour in more anti-freeze, the freezing point begins to come back up.

If you went so far as to fill your radiator with nothing but anti-freeze, you'd be protected to no lower than about 4 degrees below zero. The correct combination of Shellzone and water can protect you down to minus 62°F.

When you go to your Shell dealer, you will receive the exact amount of Shellzone needed to protect you down to the temperature you specify. The Shell man looks up the capacity of your car's cooling system (this varies from make to make, model to model, and year to year.)

Then he does something you might forget. He includes the water capacity of your heater in his calculations. After he's poured in the right amount of Shellzone, he double-checks with a hydrometer. That's how he can be sure you have the protection you need.

Shellzone guarantee

Finally, your Shell dealer fills out the Shellzone guarantee and hands it to you. He can give you this ironclad guarantee because he knows the job has been done properly. And because Shellzone is a powerfully effective anti-freeze, with potent additives that prevent rust, corrosion, scale formation and foaming.

Protect your car these seven ways

The seven tips given here all deal with common causes of winter trouble. To avoid these ills and expenses, have all seven checked by your Shell dealer. And you'd be wise to do it early. In these more leisurely Fall days before the frost, he has extra time to fuss, check—and double check.

Tip #1—check plugs and points. A car with faulty points or plugs is difficult to start in winter. A strong, precisely-timed spark is vital in cold weather. Your Shell dealer can quickly have your points and plugs put in top condition.

Tip #2—check battery. For quick starts, your battery must turn the engine over briskly. If the engine reacts sluggishly when you press the starter, the spark is feeble and the gas mixture is compressed too slowly. Result—poor starting. Remember—battery must be fully charged, terminals clean, connections tight and leads in good condition.

Tip #3—check windshield wipers. Worn wiper blades slide sloppily over a windshield—leave behind a film of ice, slush, oil or dirt. This is particularly hazardous after nightfall, when a lot of winter driving is done.

Tip #4—use multigrade oil. Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil will reduce the strain on your battery by letting the engine turn over quickly on frigid mornings. This is because it is multi-grade—effectively resists undue thickening in cold weather or thinning out in a hot engine.

Tip #5—have your carburetor checked. For example, a properly-set choke can make all the difference in how your car starts and runs—and how much gas it uses. Another point—many engines run more smoothly in winter when their idling speed is increased.

Tip #6—have your car polished. A polish job will protect your car against its arch enemy—road salt. Afterwards, have it washed regularly to preserve the finish.

Tip #7—have your tires checked. Your Shell dealer will inspect your tires for cuts, bulges and wear. Have snow tires fitted, and you'll be all ready for winter. The deeper, wider tread on snow tires often makes the difference between wheelspin and traction on slush or snow.

Promised Plans For Health Care Disclosed Today

REGINA (CP)—Two major pieces of legislation are expected to come before a special session of the Saskatchewan legislature opening today.

The CCF government is expected to move to establish its long-promised medical care plan and to introduce legislation dealing with a new federal-provincial tax-sharing agreement.

Unlike regular sessions which provide colorful ceremony, there will be no special guests or ceremonies.

If the government introduces legislation to finance its medical care plan, the session may be lengthy. If only general legislation on medical care is introduced, the session may last 10 to 15 days.

INTERIM REPORT

The medical care plan is expected to be based on an interim report of an advisory committee which went to the government Sept. 27.

Cost of the plan was estimated at $19,970,000 to $21,570,000 for the first year.

The committee recommended a comprehensive, compulsory scheme to cover nearly all 930,000 Saskatchewan residents. It recommended a private administration, responsible to the government through the minister of public health.

Also recommended were nominal deterrent fees. The plan would be paid for by premiums, the deterrent fees and general government revenues.

FOUR MEANS

The government is known to be studying four means of raising funds for the plan—increased income tax, increased corporation tax, premiums, and increases in the three per cent provincial education and hospitalization sales tax.

Premier T. C. Douglas has said the medical care plan will come into operation in 1962.

Holiday Fatal For 71

By Canadian Press

At least 71 Canadians met violent deaths during the Thanksgiving weekend, 55 of them on the roads, seven in drownings and four in hunting accidents. B.C. had three traffic deaths.

Ontario, with the greatest population, led the provinces in total deaths at 20—15 of them traffic accidents.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday local times gave the following provincial totals, with traffic fatalities in brackets:

Ontario 20 (15), Quebec 23 (21), Alberta 6 (5), Manitoba 4 (4), Saskatchewan 3 (3), British Columbia 3 (3), New Brunswick 3 (1), Nova Scotia 4 (4).

President Of Finland In Capital

OTTAWA (CP) — Finnish President Urho Kekkonen, 61, arrived here by air at 5 p.m. yesterday to begin a three-day goodwill visit, part of a six-day visit he is making to Canada. With him is Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen.

Mr. Kekkonen was greeted at Uplands Airport by Governor-General Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, External Affairs Minister Green and members of the diplomatic corps.

FIRST IN CANADA

Gen. Vanier said in officially welcoming the first Finnish president to visit Canada that he was proud and happy to receive him "in the capital of this realm whose people have such a friendly feeling for Finland."

The governor-general paid tribute to "the high reputation and many achievements" of Finns who have settled in Canada during the last 120 years.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the visiting president that Finland has always stood in the forefront of freedom.

THEY'RE HERE! Loaded with extra values yet now the lowest-priced cars in their class

1962 Rambler Classic / 1962 Rambler American

Rambler's extra value has always been the talk of the industry. Now we've taken another step — new low prices across the board! Rambler American is the greatest compact value of all at the lowest compact price. Rambler Classic — worth $1,000 in extra values, yet now priced way below Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth.

WHAT DO WE MEAN BY EXTRAS? We mean the all-welded body and frame that eliminates squeaks and rattles, adds years of life to the car. Deep-dip rustproofing (6 separate dips) that helps keep that showroom shine. The new Double-Safety brake system which makes front and rear brakes operate independently — providing a double margin of safety. Then there's the Ceramic-Armoured muffler and tail-pipe — guaranteed as long as you own the car. And guaranteed for two full years are the Rambler-Gard all-season radiator coolant and the new Powr-Guard battery — standard on all Rambler models. These exceptional features are all part of Rambler's new standard of basic excellence.

THE 1962 RAMBLER CLASSIC IS PRICED BELOW THE LOW-PRICED THREE! It's the car that started the swing to compacts. This young, eager performer gives you the best of both sizes — small size outside and big size inside. It's taken us twelve years to develop this new Classic with the die-cast aluminum engine yet it costs you less than the low-priced three — Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth.

THE 1962 RAMBLER AMERICAN IS THE LOWEST PRICED CANADIAN COMPACT! The American is the Classic's little brother, a true compact with a wheelbase of only 100". It has an exciting spirit to go with its good looks and has won every economy run it has ever entered. This is a good indication of the thought and work we've put into the Rambler American. Yet you pay less for it than any other Canadian compact! See your Rambler Dealer today.

With Harry Young

Bill McColl, this year's champion at the Victoria club, is trying for something that may be unique in local golfing achievements.

He is hot-foot after the distinction of being champion of two clubs in one year.

The chance coming Bill's way arrives through the fact that he is a playing member of both Victoria and Colwood clubs.

On Sunday, McColl got past another hurdle when he beat Don Ross, the Colwood president, in a semifinal match, getting off to a flying start by winning five of the first six holes and holding on for an easy passage into the 36-hole final.

In this, however, McColl will have to play his very best golf. His opponent is the redoubtable Laurie Kerr, easily the district's most successful medal player, and a hard man to beat over 36 holes in match play.

Kerr won his way into the final by beating Vic Painter by 3-2 but Laurie had to show his uphill fighting qualities after losing the first two holes.

Among the Gorge Vale members who were presented with long-membership buttons at the club's annual prize-giving party on Saturday evening was John Merriman, the club's champion.

John qualified for the 15-20-year button although he is still in his 28th year. He started his connection with Gorge Vale as a 13-year-old, and has been an active and enthusiastic member ever since. He won the first of his three club championships in 1951 when he was only 17 years of age.

In the match preceding the prize-giving, John Carlow's president's team beat C. N. Holland's captain's side by 32 to 23. The president's team took the singles, 20-17, and the fourball by 12-6.

The first of the winter monthly medals will be played at Victoria Golf Club on Sunday. Entry is restricted to local players with handicaps of seven or less. The draw will be made today, and anyone wishing to play should contact district secretary Leo Derman at Gorge Vale without delay. No post entries will be permitted.

Art Donaldson and John Merriman of Gorge Vale, who have been sporting the city open buttons all summer, gave them up without much of a fight to Gordon Pellow and Ken Lawson at Colwood Sunday.

The Uplands challengers played steady golf to win by 4-3, and their best ball was about par at the finish. Donaldson failed to strike his best form and the Gorge pair lost to par figures on several holes.

Next challengers, at Gorge Vale on Oct. 22, are Dr. George Bigelow and Laurie Carroll of Victoria, who held the buttons for the most part of last season.

Nearly 100 players defied Monday's rain in quest of the Bunny Thomson Memorial Trophy at Uplands.

The winner, C. Weatherhead of the host club, had a fine round of 76, for a net 66 to win his first golfing trophy. Other net prize winners were Pete Fediu (Uplands) 81-14-67; B. Carlow (Gorge) 79-10-69; G. Sinnott (Gorge) 80-11-69; W. de Silva (Gorge) 78-9-69; and L. Palmgren (Gorge) 87-18-69.

Dick Munn, now back from Banff, took the low gross with 70 and Bill Wakeham was runner-up with 71. Gordon Pellow was third with 73.

Directors of the B.C. Golf Association and members of the Victoria Golf Committee will have their first official get-together at Gorge Vale Friday.

A joint meeting in the evening will be preceded by a round of golf at Gorge Vale starting at noon. All intending to play in this event should let me know as soon as possible so that a draw may be made.

The Thanksgiving competitions at Victoria Golf Club on Monday were cancelled owing to the inclement weather. The principal event, the Gibson Trophy, for mixed foursome medal play, will be held on Sunday, Nov. 12.

Last-Hope Bettors Got Their Chance

Those who braved the rain Monday in the last chance to get even aren't able to say that Sandown Park's thoroughbreds didn't give them the opportunity.

On a track on which anything could happen, and most everything did, one good-sized bet in any of six races would have paid the rent for a year. Only two favorites managed to get down in front, and both won by 10 lengths to make their $6.50 and $5.40 straight prices look like overlays.

Outside of the easy victories for Pro Tick and McFibber, it was outsiders all the way.

MOUTH-WATERING

Double-figure win prices, ranging from the $11 paid by Honey Marie to the $38.40 for Val Read in the marathon feature event, were posted six times. And a fellow could have place.

Val Read paid $19.70 to place, Pat Hurry paid $17.50, Mostly Ginger $16.50, Pixie's Arc $16.70, Magog $11.70 and Amsterman $11.

Not too many, of course, managed to guess right but at least a few should have gone home happy—like the 13 who figured Dr. Tenney and Just Decision looked like the daily double. They collected $370.50 each. And there were two score or more who collected $129.90 apiece for each two dollars they wagered on Amsterman and Pixie's Arc to be the first two in the fourth race.

The second quinella was a solid $76.80, shared by many out of a quinella pool which amounted to $12,291.

Three of the longshots were overlooked despite previous Sandown wins this year—Dr. Tenney, Amsterman and Honey Marie. Pro Tick, second 11 times this season in an amazing record of consistency, scored his second win of the year—and second at Sandown.

Riding honors went to George Miller, who broke a tie with Al Sherman by getting his 18th and 19th wins. Sherman could get no closer than third in seven rides.

All in all, it amounted to a rather memorable finish to a racing meet which had two days of racing cancelled because of a lack of entries and finally managed to get in 15 of the 16 scheduled cards.

Betting on Monday amounted to more than $110,000, bringing the total, for the first time at Sandown, to more than a million dollars. The daily average, however, was down slightly from last year's plus $68,000.

Monday's results:

Hole Halved Despite Ace

SHARON, Pa. (AP) — A golfing oddity, consecutive holes-in-one, occurred at Tam O'Shanter course here Sunday.

E. R. Friedlob of Youngstown, Ohio, firing first on the 130-yard, 14th hole, hit a nine-iron shot which landed two feet past the pin and bounced back into the cup.

John Baltine of Wheatland, Pa., then hit a wedge. The ball landed about two feet short and plunked into the hole on the first bounce.

Found Room at the Top

Waving his new one-year contract, former Vancouver Mounties' manager Billy Hitchcock is fitted for Baltimore Orioles' cap by club-president Lee MacPhail after signing to manage Orioles for a reported $30,000.

* * *

Speaking Briefly

Orioles Give Nod To Bill Hitchcock

Billy Hitchcock, who took over Vancouver Mounties last year and guided them to second place in the Pacific Coast Baseball League, has been named as manager of Baltimore Orioles.

The signing of a one-year contract for an estimated $30,000 was announced yesterday by Baltimore president Lee MacPhail after weeks of rumors that Hitchcock was to be the new Baltimore boss. The 43-year-old Alabaman succeeds Paul Richards, who resigned after seven years to become general-manager of the new Houston club in the National League.

EXPERIENCED

It was another major step up in a fine baseball career for Hitchcock, a major-league infielder with Detroit, Washington, St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia in the American League.

He was player-manager for Buffalo in the International League in 1954, then coached with Detroit for five seasons.

New Clubs Get Their Players —Casey Faces Sternest Test

CINCINNATI—Two new major league baseball clubs were staffed here Tuesday, at a total cost of $3,650,000, and while the general-managers of both expressed their satisfaction at what they got, the opinion of others was that manager Casey Stengel of the New York Mets would have to become a real swami to maintain his record and Harry Craft of Houston Colts a miracle-worker to make his mark.

There was surprisingly little offered that was good as each club picked 16 players at $75,000 each from lists prepared by the other eight National League clubs.

NO. 1 HIT .227

Colts won the toss for the right to make the first selection, and they could find no one they thought better than Eddie Bressoud, a 29-year-old shortstop who batted .227 in 58 games with San Francisco Giants last season.

The Mets went for another San Francisco player in their first choice — catcher Hobie Landrith, who batted .235 in 42 games.

Then the Colts took Bob Aspromonte, a 23-year-old infielder who batted .235 in 45 games for the Los Angeles Dodgers, and the Mets latched onto Elio Chacon, Cincinnati second-baseman who managed a .265 average this season.

AND SO IT WENT

Then the Colts took Bob Lillis, a .213 infielder with St. Louis Cardinals this season, and the Giants grabbed Roger Craig, who had a 5-6 record and 6.13 earned-run average with Los Angeles Dodgers this season.

And so it went until each club had picked 16 players at $75,000 per player. The Mets went for promising but unproven young pitchers while picking up a couple of "name" veterans like Gil. Hodges and Gus Bell.

BONUS?

Each new club was permitted to pick four players from a "bonus" list of $125,000 each with none of the holdover clubs to lose more than one player in the higher-priced category.

For their $500,000 the Mets got pitcher Bob Miller from St. Louis Cardinals, pitcher Jay Hook from Cincinnati Reds, infielder Don Zimmer from Chicago Cubs and infielder-outfielder Lee Walls from Philadelphia Phillies.

The Colts paid a half-million dollars for pitcher Dick Farrell of Los Angeles, catcher Hal Smith of Pittsburgh Pirates, outfielder Al Spangler of Milwaukee Braves and infielder Joe Amalfitano of San Francisco.

Between the selection of the 16 at $75,000 and the four at $125,000, both the Mets and Colts had a chance to take eight more at $50,000 each.

It was a pretty-thin market, the Colts taking only outfielder Ed Olivares of St. Louis, pitcher Jim Golden of Los Angeles and pitcher Jim Umbricht of Pittsburgh while the Mets took pitcher Sherman Jones of Cincinnati and outfielder Jim Hickman from St. Louis.

Going for young, promising and less-expensive talent in many cases, the two new clubs passed up such veterans as Robin Roberts, Richie Ashburn, John Antonelli, Johnny Logan, Red Schoendienst, Wilmer Mizell and Billy Loes.

The Mets and Colts start play next year with the National League adopting the 162-game schedule used this year by the American League when it expanded to 10 clubs.

Hockey Roundup

NHL Opener Tonight

Doug Harvey, nine times an all-star defenceman, is a rookie again tonight when New York Rangers open the 1961-62 National Hockey League season against the Bruins in Boston.

The 37-year-old veteran, who starred with Montreal Canadiens, opens his first season as a coach and will also take his turn on defence as he tries to lead the Rangers into the first division of the NHL. Last year they finished fifth, ahead of only the Bruins.

The Bruins, now led by ex-Ranger coach Phil Watson, have six rookies on their roster. The Rangers have four.

The other four NHL clubs will open within the next four days.

Detroit Red Wings host Toronto Maple Leafs tomorrow night while the Bruins and Rangers clash again at New York. Montreal Canadiens entertain the Rangers Saturday night while Boston plays at Toronto, and the Stanley Cup champion Chicago Black Hawks open at home Sunday against the Red Wings.

* * *

All eight teams will see action when the Western Hockey League bucks superstition and opens its season on Friday, Oct. 13.

Portland Buckaroos make the first trip south to face George Agar's Blades in Los Angeles, and San Francisco Seals open the Northern Division against the Totems in Seattle.

Spokane Comets face the Canucks in Vancouver and Edmonton Flyers open at home against the defending champion Calgary Stampeders, strong enough this season to beat Montreal Canadiens in a pre-season exhibition.

* * *

Portland Buckaroos broke up their Western Hockey League training camp one day earlier than expected yesterday and headed for home after two weeks' training at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

* * *

Montreal Canadiens beat Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, 3-0, in Sudbury last night on goals by Gilles Tremblay, Bernie Geoffrion and Marcel Bonin.

On Monday, they coasted to a 5-3 victory over their EPHL farm club, Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, with Bonin, Donnie Marshall, Henri Richard, Jean Gauthier and Claude Provost handling the scoring.

* * *

Detroit Red Wings took their first pre-season exhibition loss in 70 games over the past seven seasons Sunday, losing, 4-1, to Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League.

But they got back at the Bears Monday in their final exhibition game, beating them, 6-1, as Gordie Howe collected three goals and an assist. Norm Ullman, Al Johnson and Bruce MacGregor got the other goals.

* * *

Toronto Maple Leafs closed out their exhibition schedule by losing, 5-3, Sunday to their Rochester farm club. Bobby Nevin, Frank Mahovlich and Dick Duff did their scoring.

* * *

Spokane Comets beat Vancouver Canucks, for the fourth straight time, in Prince George last night, beating them 4-3, for their sixth straight exhibition victory.

Comets won 5-1 Sunday and 4-2 Monday. The game Monday cost them the services of winger Gord Stratton, who will be out for at least two months with a broken shoulder he received after being checked by Mike Kardash.

One line did all the scoring for Comets last night. Gerry Brisson scored twice and Max Mekilok and Bev Bell once each. Barrie Ross, with two goals, and Wayne Hall scored for Canucks, who have lost seven of eight exhibitions.

Only Hope for Lions A Stay of Execution

B.C. Lions, doomed to sit out the Western Conference playoffs for the seventh time in eight years, have applied for a stay of execution. It is almost certain they won't get it.

Lions' slim hopes of making the playoffs were tramped into the turf of Taylor Field in Regina Monday afternoon, when they lost to Saskatchewan Roughriders, 17-7.

They trail third-place Calgary by seven points, and could get only six if they won their last three games.

But general-manager Herb Capozzi reports Lions have filed a protest with Canadian Football League commissioner G. Sydney Halter over the club's 24-20 loss to the Blue Bombers in Winnipeg Saturday night.

TWO POINTS LOST

Protest centres around a play late in the fourth quarter when Lions, ahead 19-17, attempted a field goal. It was signalled good and referee Bud Irving whistled the play dead. Then, after consultation, he changed the ruling and awarded Lions one point.

Lions aren't arguing that the field goal was good. Their point is that, with the whistle blowing the play dead, they had no chance to tackle Bombers' Henry Janzen in the end zone. Presumably they feel he might have fumbled.

"Anything could have happened if the play hadn't been stopped," Capozzi said.

HE'S WAITING

In Winnipeg, Halter refused to comment on the protest until he receives Capozzi's formal letter today. But it seemed a thin hope at best for Lions, who slumped terribly Monday after their great showing in Winnipeg.

They led, 7-4, at half time, but wilted under a Saskatchewan drive in the third quarter. Halfback Ray Smith ran 10 yards for the winning touchdown, then put the Riders out of reach in the fourth quarter when he scooped up a fumble by Bill Britton and raced 16 yards for a second touchdown.

Reg Whitehouse kicked one convert and a 40-yard field goal for the Riders and fullback Ferd Burket booted a 41-yard single.

CLICKED ONCE

Halfback Sonny Homer got the only B.C. touchdown in the first quarter, taking a nine-yard pass from Joe Kapp. The play was set up when Neil Beaumont recovered a Saskatchewan fumble at the Rider 34 yard line.

Riders picked off three of Kapp's passes, one setting up the field goal by Whitehouse in the first quarter. Kapp completed only seven of 24 passes, and Riders' Dave Grosz clicked on only four of 13 attempts.

Rebounding Riders Finally Catch Cats

HAMILTON—Ottawa Rough Riders, a thoroughly-beaten club for 40 minutes, errupted for two touchdowns in the final five minutes here Monday and beat Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 14-10, to tie them for first place in the Eastern Conference of the Canadian Football League.

Riders were trailing, 10-0, when Gerry Nesbitt crashed in to hit Hamilton quarterback Bernie Faloney as he attempted to pass. The ball flew into the arms of defensive end Jim Reynolds, who raced 67 yards for the first Ottawa touchdown.

Next time the fired-up Riders got the ball, they marched 90 yards for the winning touchdown.

Rookie halfback Chuck Stanley scampered the final 22 yards with time running out after Riders had disdained trying for the field goal that would have given them a tie.

Gary Schreider kicked both converts for the other Ottawa points.

Hamilton's lead came on a 45-yard field goal by Don Sutherin and a touchdown by Gerry McDougall on a 20-yard pass from Faloney. Sutherin kicked the convert.

Yogi's Record Series

Yogi Berra set nine new world series records but was the previous record holder in eight cases. The one-time catcher who now plays in the outfield leads in series played (12), most series games (72), most at bats (256), most runs (41), most runs batted in (39), most hits (71), most singles (49), most total bases (117) and most series with one or more runs batted in 11).

In all, 41 series records were broken this year with Berra and Whitey Ford setting 16 new standards between them.

* * *

Perhaps the most envied series record is held by Frankie Crosetti. The one-time shortstop ace of the Yankees who has been a coach ever since his active career ended, has now collected 20 world-series cheques.

* * *

Bobby Richardson, who batted .232 and .261 in the last two seasons continued to be a star in series play. The Yankee second-baseman tied a record for a five-game series by getting nine hits and led regulars with a .391 average. Last year, Richardson had 11 hits for a .367 average and set a record by batting in 12 runs.

Whitey Ford has given up only 18 hits in his record-breaking skein of 32 consecutive scoreless world series' innings.

* * *

Southpaw pitchers shared all the Yankee victories, Ford winning two games and Luis Arroyo and Bud Daley, both in relief, one each.

* * *

Both managers, Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Fred Hutchinson of the Reds, agreed that the ninth-inning home run by Roger Maris which won the third game for the Yankees, 3-2, was the turning point in the series. Maris had only one other hit, ended up with a .105 batting average.

* * *

Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Gene Freese, who drove in 298 runs, made 543 hits and connected for 79 home runs between them for the Reds during the season, were series busts. The three of them managed only six hits in 53 times at bat and drove in only four runs, three of them on Robinson's meaningless homer in Monday's 13-5 defeat.

* * *

Pitcher Jay Hook was the only Cincinnati player who didn't see any series action but the Yankees didn't use seven of their players—pitchers Bob Turley, Tev Clevenger, Rollie Sheldon, Hal Reniff and Al Downing and infielders Bob Hale and Joe DeMaestri.

* * *

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris combined for 115 home runs and 270 runs batted in during the season, but got only one home run and two runs batted in for the series. But Hec Lopez took up much of the slack, batting in seven runs although he had but three hits.

* * *

Best series comment came from a National League fan as the Reds trudged off the field after the last game—"We waited all season for them to fold, but they didn't do it until now."

* * *

Only the third person to win a series in his first managerial season, Ralph Houk was assured after Monday's game that he would get a substantial pay raise from the Yankees for next season.

* * *

It's 36-22 for the American League over the National League in the series victories but it's only 17-15 if you take out the Yankees. They've won 19 times, lost only seven times.

* * *

The Reds sent 15 pinch-hitters to the plate in five games for a total of only one hit—an .067 average.

* * *

Cincinnati-outfielder Wally Post, with 10 bases in 18 trips, had the best slugging average for players who took part in all five games. Elston Howard of the Yankees was next, with a .550 slugging average to Post's .556.

WHITEY FORD
. . . no doubt

Breaks Ruth's Pitching Record

Ford Voted Best as Yankees Clobber Reds

Edward Charles "Whitey" Ford, the 31-year-old (on Oct. 21) blond southpaw who owns one of the most glittering won-lost and earned-run averages in major league baseball, emerged from the 1961 world series as its outstanding figure.

Ford, who broke Babe Ruth's 43-year-old record for consecutive scoreless innings in series play, was selected as the winner of the sports car as the player "who, through his over-all play in the world series, did the most for his team.

About the only person who "got to" Ford in the last two world series was Ford himself. He put himself out of action in Sunday's fourth game when a foul tip off his bat hit him on the right foot and forced him to retire in the sixth inning.

He was leading, 2-0, at the time and became the winning pitcher as the New York Yankees went on to take a 3-1 lead over Cincinnati Reds with a 7-0 rout.

LONG ENOUGH

But Ford had lasted long enough to erase a 43-year-old record held by Babe Ruth. He had blanked the Reds, 2-0, in the first game of the series and last year shut out Pittsburgh Pirates in both his series starts.

That gave him 32 consecutive scoreless innings in series play. Ruth had pitched 29⅔ scoreless innings in a row in two series spread over three years before he moved to the outfield to become baseball's all-time slugging star.

Ford's win on Sunday was also his ninth in series play, breaking his own record of eight which he set in the first game.

BIG GUNS ZERO IN

The 1961 series developed into a rout over the weekend as the Yankees turned on their power to rout the Reds, 7-0 and 13-5 on Sunday and Monday to wrap it up in five games.

Jim O'Toole pitched well Sunday but with the Reds unable to get to Ford, Cincinnati manager Fred Hutchinson had to take his young southpaw out for a pinch-hitter in the fifth inning. The Yankees promptly got to Jim "The Long Season" Brosnan for five runs in the next two innings and righthander Jim Coates gave up only one hit in four scoreless innings to leave the Reds needing three in a row to win the series.

The Yankees had to face Joey Jay, who had handcuffed them in the second game, and they had to play without both Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle. Berra injured a shoulder sliding into third base on Sunday and Mantle, whose single led to the first run, had to be taken out in the fourth inning when the wound on his right thigh, which had been operated on for removal of an abscess, broke open.

It didn't make any difference. Catcher Johnny Blanchard went to right field and reserve-outfielder Hector Lopez 'got left-field.' And it was this pair of so-called spares who led the final-game rout.

Blanchard homered for the first two runs in a five-run first inning, later added a double and single, scored three runs and made a fine running catch. Lopez batted in five runs with a three-run homer and a two-run triple.

The Yankees had a 6-0 lead when Frank Robinson finally snapped his slump in the third with a three-run homer. But the Yankees ended all hopes in their next turn at bat with another five-run splurge, and after Cincinnati had scored two more in the fifth, the Yankees matched that, too, with two runs in the sixth.

TAKE TIME OUT FOR SURVIVAL!

Earn As You Serve Under The Special Militia Training Program

Will YOU lend a hand, during the coming months, on a job of work that's supremely important for the future of all Canadians?

One hundred thousand additional men are needed now for the Militia—the reserve force, which in the event of nuclear attack, would work with the Regular Army on its vital task of organizing our national survival. These citizen soldiers will be trained to the required standard by a special series of courses, each lasting six weeks.

During the course the new Militiaman will be given all-day training for five days a week. He will live at home and receive the same pay as a regular soldier. At the end of the course he may be entitled to continue as a member of the Militia on the normal basis, which involves one or two evenings of further paid training every week.

If you're between 18 and 50, and meet enrolment standards, here's your chance of making a man-size contribution to Canada's defence, the safety of your family and your own future. Dates of courses are: Nov. 6—Dec. 17, 1961; Jan. 8—Feb. 18, 1962; Feb. 26—Apr. 8, 1962; Apr. 16—May 27, 1962.

For full information and enrolment details visit your local Armoury or contact your local Army Recruiting Station which is listed in the telephone book.

Courtenay	5	1	4	0	6	214	2
Campbell River	4	0	4	0	1	[illegible]	0

Next games Sunday, 2 p.m.—Vampires vs Campbell River, Macdonald Park; Farmers vs. Courtenay, Carnarvon Park.

John Todd gathered in a 50-yard touchdown pass from Glen Jones and Terry Cox kicked the convert for the winning point Sunday as Farmers edged Nanaimo, 13-12, in Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League play at Nanaimo.

Cox also scored Farmers' first touchdown, while Bob Simpson and Barry Thein each scored one touchdown for Nanaimo. Meanwhile Victoria Vampires romped to a 70-0 victory at Courtenay, their fifth straight win.

Brian Rigby threw four touchdown passes, and Dave Jones and Neil Worboys each scored three touchdowns. Fred Holmes and Doug Bellababa had two touchdowns apiece, and Dennis Todd scored one. Don Hess kicked two converts, Darrell Thom converted once, and Rigby booted a single.

Three's Not Any Crowd in San Francisco

Other teams in the National Football League are having their quarterbacking problems but San Francisco 49'ers are laughing. They've got three quarterbacks, they use all of them, and all of them are turning in star performances.

Coach Red Hickey used his new shuttle system with John Brodie, Billy Kilmer and Bobby Waters taking turns at quarterback on almost every play Sunday, and the 49'ers beat Los Angeles Rams, 35-0, for their third victory in four starts and a share of first place in the Eastern Division.

Elsewhere, things aren't so bright in the quarterback department.

BENCH FOR JOHN?

After watching his Baltimore Colts take a 45-7 beating from Green Bay Packers, coach Weeb Ewbank said he is seriously considering benching Johnny Unitas, the brilliant quarterback who led Colts to league championships in 1958 and 1959.

Unitas, obviously missing the huge linemen he used to have for protection, has had nine passes intercepted and his completion average is only a sub-par 49.4 per cent. Ewbank says he will watch Unitas and Lamar McCan in practice, and "whoever looks better" will start Sunday against Chicago Bears.

Colts ran into the Packers on a bad day. Paul Hornung, who set an NFL record of 176 points last season, had his best day ever on Sunday, scoring 33 points on four touchdowns, a field goal and six converts. In four games this season he has 64 points.

Pittsburgh Steelers, who lost, 21-6, to Philadelphia Eagles may also have lost quarterback Bobby Lane for the rest of the season. Layne has a tumor on his left side and will miss at least two games even if the injury responds to treatment.

Quarterback Sam Etcheverry, a star for nine years in Canada, had the worst day of his career as St. Louis Cardinals lost, 24-9, to New York Giants.

He completed only two of seven passes for 18 yards, and carried the ball once for a one-yard loss. Most of the time he lay on the ground, under a pile of Giants.

Duncan Rangers almost didn't make it into the Victoria and District Football League this season because officials were fearful of letting in another weak up-Island entry. But the Rangers are proving they belong.

Sunday they got three goals from Eugene Thorne and beat Ladysmith 4-0. Their season record is now 4-0, they share first place with Victoria Kickers, and Thorne is well up in the scoring race with 10 goals.

Kickers also won their fourth game Sunday, a 5-3 decision over Esquimalt. Gorge Hotel was held to a 3-3 tie by Vic West; Brodie's beat Evcoes 5-2; Canadian Scottish and Heaneys drew, 2-2, and Nanaimo beat Saanich Thistles, 3-0.

Vic High Wins

Victoria High defeated Milne's Landing, 8-1, Tuesday in inter-high school senior "B" soccer league play at Victoria High.

Tommy Simpson scored three goals, John Warrington and Marty Taylor added two each, and Tom Deenshaw scored once for Vic High. Allan Brooks replied for Milne's Landing.

United's One-Goal Average Poses Problem

A goal-a-game average isn't enough in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, and manager Wally Milligan, who saw his Victoria United team lose, 2-0, to St. Andrews Monday, knows his club will have to speed up if it hopes to keep up with the rest of the league.

"Too many of them are still playing at the same tempo they used in the district league," Milligan said. "It isn't fast enough, and we won't start getting goals until it speeds up."

Despite this shortage of goals (five in five games), United has been able to play .500 soccer, thanks to a defence anchored by goalkeeper Barry Sadler that has allowed only five goals.

But although United shares second place with one win, one loss and three draws, Milligan knows the scoring power will have to be increased if the club is to stay that high.

Next games Saturday: [illegible] at VICTORIA, Canadians at Royals.

Second-half goals by Winston Clayton and Dick Crompton handed United its first loss and left the club tied for second with Canadians, who beat North Shore, 5-1, Sunday.

Neil McEachnie scored four times and Tom Millar once for Canadians, and Harry Price replied for North Shore.

First place is the exclusive property of Columbus, which beat New Westminster Royals, 2-0, Monday before 2,000 fans at Callister Park.

Goals by Tony Cantz and Normie McLeod handed Royals their first defeat in 22 league matches spread over almost two full seasons.

Next league action is Saturday, when United tests North Shore at 2 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park and Canadians play Royals at Callister Park.

Undisputed King Fisherman

He's the Compleat Angler

★ ★ ★

BOB WRIGHT
. . . 'that's it'

Bob Wright has done it.

The Oak Bay angler caught a 3:15-pound trout over the weekend to clinch the Compleat Angler trophy, which will be awarded to the first person to win all six Prince Crests in one year in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

Mr. Wright's trout and the 18:12 coho he caught at Port Renfrew won't officially be declared Prince Crest winners until after the contest ends, Oct. 15, but they are big fish and there is no doubt they will qualify handily.

TOO MUCH PRESSURE

"That's it. I am through trophy fishing. It is too much pressure," Mr. Wright said yesterday after earning the undisputed title of the true King Fisherman of Vancouver Island. Last year before the trout division was separated into two divisions, he won all five Prince Crests.

To win his lake trout crest this year he fished Cowichan Lake, Hogan's Lake on Gabriola Island, Lizard Lake and finally Nahmint Lake in the Alberni area.

GUIDE LAST YEAR

He flew into Nahmint Lake at the weekend with Sidney electrician-pilot Vic Dawson, who last year guided Righton Parker to the King Fisherman lake trout trophy.

Mr. Wright caught his crest winner on a Gibbs Cowichan spinner and worm with four ounces of weight.

Using a minnow, Mr. Dawson landed a 6:11 and four-pounder.

AT BLACK SWAN

They caught their fish Sunday, but weather was so fogged in they had to wait until Monday to fly out and weigh them in at the Black Swan at Elk Lake.

To win his other four crests, Mr. Wright caught a 51:4 tyee, 39:2 spring, 7:13 river trout and five-pound bass.

Gordon Head Campus

$1,000,000 in New Buildings Starting at Varsity This Fall

Students Praise Three-Part Plan

Nearly $1,000,000 in new construction will be under way on the Gordon Head campus before the end of this year, a spokesman for Victoria University development board said last night.

Floyd Fairclough, development manager, said tenders will be called "this fall" for a $400,000 classroom block to accommodate 800 students and a $300,000 student union building.

SCIENCE BUILDING

By the end of the year, said Mr. Fairclough, it is also expected excavation work will be in progress for the $2,000,000 science building at Gordon Head.

"Nearly complete" now are plans for the science building, he said. General contract for this major project is expected to be awarded early next year and construction under way by spring. It will take two years to complete.

CLASSROOM BLOCK

The schedule calls for completion of the student union building and classroom block by next September.

Student council members yesterday gave "enthusiastic approval" to plans for the student union building submitted by architect John Di Castri, council president Brian Little said last night.

MEETING ROOMS

The building, to be focal point of student activities on the new campus, will house offices for the student council, meeting rooms to be shared by about 40 campus clubs and societies, an administration office a large area for dancing and a patio.

Part of the cost of the building will be raised by the student council itself, a spokesman said.

NO JUSTICE

Officials said the earlier plan to combine the students' union building and cafeteria was abandoned when it became apparent the allocated funds, about $350,000, would do justice to neither.

It was decided therefore to spend the bulk of the money on a students' union building and renovate the existing mess hall at Gordon Head to serve as a cafeteria "for the next few years."

ALL ON PAPER

"We've got it all on paper," said Mr. Fairclough.

"But in a very few weeks now there will be signs of construction under way at Gordon Head."

Fosdick Must Go Police Chiefs Say

Three of Greater Victoria's police chiefs agree Fearless Fosdick must go.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe, Esquimalt; W. A. Pearson, Saanich, and Robert Smith, Oak Bay, said they more or less agreed with the International Association of Chiefs of Police. The association passed a resolution at its Montreal convention to the effect Fosdick and creator Al Capp tended to "belittle" law enforcement officers.

* * *

Sole holdout against the black-listing of the much-shot, half-starved comic strip detective was Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock, who said:

"I never read comics in the newspapers. I haven't for years, so I can't say whether Fearless Fosdick would be an influence for good or for bad."

* * *

While all three anti-Fosdick officers placed a varying amount of blame on the witless comic strip detective for lowering the prestige of law enforcement agencies in the eyes of the younger generation, they agreed parents bore a heavier responsibility.

"I don't think such comic strips improve the situation," said Chief Pearson, "but it is not only the comic strips. Every night on television there is some play showing either stupid or crooked police officers.

* * *

"But parents are the biggest contributors to the disdain modern youngsters feel for police. They try to get away with all sorts of traffic violations while their youngsters look on."

He agreed the condemnation of Fosdick and his ilk was a "good thing—but it won't accomplish anything."

* * *

Said Chief Smith: "While comic strips are possibly a necessary evil, I feel that the principle behind this resolution is good.

He said such ridicule of law enforcement agencies "could be dangerous—even on TV we have the example of Perry Mason winning all his cases, while the poor prosecutor, the representative of the law, just mumbles."

* * *

Less convinced that Fosdick contributed to the "scofflaw" attitude of youngsters toward police was Esquimalt's Chief Stancombe.

"It could be—but I think it very remote," he said. "Most children's attitude toward police reflects the attitude of their parents."

B.C. Grant for Centenary Before MLAs, City Today

By TED SHACKLEFORD

A provincial grant towards Victoria centennial project and centennial celebrations will be discussed this morning at a meeting between Victoria's MLAs and city fathers, the Colonist learned last night.

But Victoria has not definitely picked an official centennial project for next year.

NEW CITY HALL

The project recommended by Victoria's centennial committee—construction of a new city hall, creation of a centennial park and square and creation of a "Victoriana" museum in Craigdarroch Castle—was referred to council's city hall committee for report Sept. 14.

No formal meeting of the city hall committee has been held since then, Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman, said—only informal meetings.

The meeting will be held in the office of Public Works Minister W. N. Chant.

Mayor Percy Scurrah will represent the city, together with Ald. Dowell and Ald. Austin Curtis.

Deadline for the inclusion of any such grants in the provincial budget is Oct. 15.

City officials yesterday indicated the suggested project will be accepted by council, but Mr. Smith has publicly suggested an alternative.

EASY CENTRE

His proposal is a $250,000 recreation centre for elderly citizens downtown, with the cost shared equally by the city, the provincial government and the old-age pensioner organizations.

Mayor Scurrah said he had reason to believe B.C. would make a "substantial grant" towards the cost of acquiring some of the property involved in the scheme.

City planner Roderick Clack said B.C. has shown interest in the centennial park idea, which would merge with plans to construct a park at the east end of the new courthouse.

Philip Holmes, chairman of the subcommittee which picked the centennial project, urged the chamber to support the scheme.

"I certainly hope we don't whiffle through the centennial year without achieving a project of this nature," he said.

EXPECT ACTION

"This went to council Sept. 14 and city council was lukewarm in its reception and referred it to the city hall committee.

"Today is the 10th day of October and they have not met yet. I think the citizens have a right to expect some action."

Assize Court Ruling

Victim of Paranoia Unfit for Trial

After deliberating for almost an hour, an Assize Court jury yesterday ruled Joseph Altorjai of Victoria unfit to stand trial on a charge of attempted murder.

Following the verdict Mr. Justice T. W. Brown ordered that Altorjai be kept in custody—in a mental hospital—"until the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor is known."

MENTAL ILLNESS

The jury had heard two psychiatrists testify that Altorjai was a victim of paranoia—a mental illness of fixed delusions. Both said that in their opinion he was unfit mentally to instruct his counsel or stand trial.

A third psychiatrist said Altorjai had shown considerable improvement in his mental condition, and was fit for trial.

Altorjai was charged following a fracas more than a year ago in a downtown cafe, in which a small hand axe was the weapon. There were no injuries.

His preliminary hearing had to be delayed until spring as his mental condition led to his being committed to a mental hospital.

Jurors were excused until Thursday at 11 a.m., when trial of Ronald Dale Haas, Vancouver, is scheduled to open on a charge of breaking and entering with intent at Sidney.

Trial of former Victorian John Blair on a charge of fraud involving real estate is slated to follow the Haas case.

Shifts Forced At VMD

Delay in the delivery of vital parts for the third B.C. government ferry will force Victoria Machinery Depot to institute shift work next week.

The missing parts — gears linking the main propulsion machinery with the tail shafts of the twin-screw vessel—are scheduled to arrive Sunday by rail from Montreal.

DEADLINE CAUSE

Deadline of 2 p.m. Oct. 24 set for launching of the City of Victoria forced VMD to revise plans to ship the gears via Panama and deliver them to the St. Lawrence port where they were transferred to a fast freight.

VMD president Harold Husband said last night two daily shifts would be instituted Sunday and continue through next week. Some 225 men are employed on the vessel.

REMAIN OPEN

A gap in the port side hull plates, to allow the installation of the four 1,500-horsepower diesel engines, must remain open until the gears are in place.

Some delay in the tight, 10-month construction schedule had already resulted from late delivery of the main propulsion machinery.

NEW RECORD

Scheduled for delivery next February, the City of Victoria will be completed in 10 months, two months less than the previous record held by VMD for the sistership, Mv Sidney.

City of Victoria and a fourth ferry under construction at Vancouver will be added to the Swartz Bay - Tsawwassen service next spring to give it an hourly schedule.

FUTURE CONCERN

With no other major shipbuilding contracts on the order books VMD officials have expressed concern for the future.

Mr. Husband said a "few small jobs" are in progress at the VMD Bay Street plant. These include putting new engines in the 143-foot tugboat Ocean Spray, formerly the Princess of Alberni.

It was the last ship to operate the CPR run to the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Other repair jobs are being done on the weathership Stonetown and the department of transport vessel Sir James Douglas.

Back to Old Counting House

Federal census officials are rechecking parts of Victoria, following complaints by Mayor Percy Scurrah that the interim population figures released last month are too low.

Mayor Scurrah fired off a protest to O. A. Lemieux, director of the federal census commission, when told preliminary figures showed Victoria's population as 53,861—down 723 from the 1956 figure.

Seizure Of PNR In Doubt

Premier Bennett yesterday termed reports that the government may take over the Pacific Northern Railway project as "news to me."

Possibility that the government may take over the Wenner-Gren project if the PNR has not let contracts for the clearing of the right-of-way by Nov. 1 was mentioned yesterday by Transport Minister Earle Westwood.

"I couldn't say definitely," said the minister. "It would be a matter of policy but it could be so."

If the PNR does not meet the deadline of Nov. 1 the whole agreement will be cancelled, he said.

They Need Strong Spirit For Darkness

By TED PULFORD

The darkness has lost most of its terror for 225 sightless Victorians because of a small but dedicated organization working in their behalf.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, a United Appeal agency which seeks $12,500 to carry on its work this year, has tackled blindness on a highly personal level—and with outstanding results.

Nobody at CNIB headquarters tries to minimize blindness. They concede that it can destroy all but the strongest spirit.

LEARN TO LIVE

They insist that a person who has lost his sight can learn to live with his affliction and resume a productive role in the community.

The CNIB's Gloria Mortimore, blind herself since childhood, points out that people without sight can be as useful to the community as anyone else, but they need great reserves of courage to carry it off.

"This is the biggest thing we can give blind people," Miss Mortimore explained. "When they come here, they are without hope; almost without the will to live. Before returning to a world that can see, they must be prepared to fight."

Around the CNIB, stories of personal courage are common—and so are stories of success against overwhelming odds.

While the CNIB relies heavily on United Appeal money for its work, the biggest burden of all falls on the shoulders of a corps of dedicated volunteer workers who are leading the blind back into a world where sight is taken for granted.

Volunteers read by the hour to listeners. Others drive blind people to and from the institute daily. Still others organize recreation programs.

FACE THREE PROBLEMS

One worker summed up the Victoria problem succinctly:

"To be blind is a terrible thing. To be old and alone are also terrible things. Here in Victoria, we have people who face all three.

"It is up to us to help them."

Saanich Seeks Ex-Servicemen

Saanich parks committee is anxious to contact ex-servicemen's groups who wish to take part in Nov. 11 ceremonies marking re-dedication of Shelbourne Street as a war memorial.

Committee chairman Coun. Gregory Cook said last night plans are being drawn up for a tree-planting ceremony near the Shelbourne Plaza shopping centre.

Legend from Sea Level Makes Egg Eater Boil

* * *

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

SUNNY SIDE UP: When John Dawson, vice-president of the First National Bank in Chicago, ordered breakfast at the Empress yesterday he asked for two eggs, boiled for four minutes.

The waitress finally brought them around but when Mr. Dawson took the top off the eggs he found them almost raw.

He asked for two more eggs to be boiled, this time for 4½ minutes. They too were found to be only half-cooked.

"What's the matter around here?" asked the visitor.

"Well," explained the waitress, "it's because we are at sea level. Eggs don't cook as quickly here as they do in Los Angeles. You see, we're at sea level."

"Los Angeles is at sea level too and it only takes four minutes to boil an egg there," said Mr. Dawson.

"Well, they say it's because we're at sea level," said the waitress.

"Maybe," suggested another visitor at the table, "maybe you should move the kitchen up to the fifth floor."

FRACTURED FABLE: A friend of ours tells of the African chief who made so much money selling souvenirs to the UN troops in the Congo that he decided to build a new house more befitting a man of his wealth.

The chief also ordered a new throne but he was a thrifty type so he told his workers to store the old throne in the attic because one day he might be able to sell it.

With that he sat down in his new throne in his new house and surveyed his surroundings.

Just then the old throne fell through the ceiling, killing the chief.

The moral of this story is that people in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

* * *

SORRY, WRONG NUMBER: The other day we mentioned the fact that a gal who had advertised for a shorthand-typing job had been deluged with calls from shady characters who wanted her to pose for camera clubs and the like.

Apparently this is not an isolated case and other women have also been bothered by these parasites who usually reel off a string of foul language and filthy suggestions when the women says they're not interested.

Anyway, after literally dozens of such calls, it was decided to complain to the police in the municipality where the girl lives.

The result was hardly satisfactory.

"What do you expect us to do about it, lady?" snarled the officer. "It's your telephone."

Is it any wonder police are losing prestige?

Incidentally, we checked with the telephone people yesterday and were told:

"Basically it's a matter for the police. If they come to us we will, of course, give them all the assistance we can."

One would think it would not be difficult to place a dummy advertisement in the paper with a special telephone number so all calls could be traced.

But apparently one municipal police force couldn't care less.

* * *

HIGHWAY PATROL: Police stopped a motorist coming towards town about 5 a.m. the other morning, demanded to see his licence and his registration slip and wanted to know what he was doing driving at that hour of the day.

"I've just been out on a call," explained the driver.

"Oh," said the officer, a little more politely. "Are you a doctor, sir?"

"No," replied the driver. "I'm an undertaker."

* * *

INSTANT ITEM: When we can't make light of our troubles it is better to keep them dark.

* * *

. . . AND LEAVE THE DRIVING TO US: Driver of one of the huge buses on the Royal Victorian motor coach tour to Vancouver had a scarlet face the other day when his busload of passengers had to be towed off the government ferry at Tsawwassen.

Miss Marilyn Gibson Honored at Parties

Miss Marilyn Gibson whose marriage to Mr. Lorne Hardwick will take place in St. Saviour's Anglican Church on Saturday, Oct. 14, has been feted at many showers and parties.

Mrs. J. Macdonald, Mrs. M. Macdonald and Mrs. G. Pickard were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. C. Brinkman, Rhoda Lane. There were 40 guests present.

The lace-covered refreshment table was centred with an arrangement of snapdragons and Esther Reed daisies in a low silver bowl and flanked by pink candles in silver holders. The gifts were in a container shaped like a ship and decorated with pink, blue and white rosettes.

A surprise shower was given for Miss Gibson and her fiance at Tsawwassen Camp by her mother's family, the Brandiths, with 58 relations of the bride-to-be and parents of the groom-elect, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hardwick of Langley, present. Corsages were presented to Miss Gibson, her mother, Mrs. R. Gibson, and mother of the groom-elect. A blue and white decorated container held the gifts. A delicious supper was served.

Mrs. T. Mitchell and her daughter, Mrs. G. Durrissen, entertained at a linen shower for Miss Gibson at the Lampson Street home of the former. An ecru tatted cloth covered the table which was centred with a crystal vase of rosebuds and heather. A corsage of American Beauty roses was presented to Miss Gibson and her mother received pink satin roses.

Guests were Mrs. D. Reed, Mrs. M. Soulsby, Mrs. G. Faye, Mrs. L. Lancaster, Mrs. D. Phelps, Mrs. R. Weldon, Mrs. J. Small, Mrs. W. Symes, Mrs. G. Redman, Mrs. S. Gibson, Mrs. J. Macdonald, Mrs. G. Hutchison, Mrs. W. Campbell and the Misses A. Brett, Carol Small, M. Macdonald, C. Hutchison, Donna Daley, Mary Phelps and Tessie and Janie Gibson.

Miss Gibson was again honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. E. Cartland and her daughter, Joanie, at their Hobbs Road home. Pink carnations were presented to the bride-to-be and white to her mother. A floral arrangement shaped like an umbrella was suspended over the dining room table. There were 35 guests.

Misses Donna Daley and Ginny Justice were hostesses at a bathroom shower held in the Victoria room at The T. Eaton store for Miss Gibson. Corsages of gladiolus and rosebuds were presented. A large shower cake centred the tea table. There were 22 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell, Vancouver, B.C., announce the engagement of their only daughter, Shirley June, to Mr. Philip J. Daley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Daley, Admirals Road. The wedding will take place in Vancouver on Oct. 28.—(Photo by William A. Boucher.)

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to speak out against an irresponsible, moronic member of our modern society called The Sitter.

I have three children under 10 years of age. Because my husband's business requires that we go out a great deal I am at the mercy of these hollow-headed, impudent, always-hungry, human vacuum cleaners with teeth. In the past six months I've had no less than a dozen, so I speak with authority.

They are interested only in the location of the refrigerator, the earliest possible moment at which they can throw the children in bed, the overtime rates for after midnight, does the TV work, and where's the telephone?

It infuriates me that these little idiots are able to make several dollars a week for just dragging their sloppy frames into a nice home, eating everything in sight and performing no service other than being on hand to call the fire department if the house should catch on fire.

It will be the happiest day of my life when my oldest daughter becomes 12 years of age. You said that's the age when children can safely be left alone. —SICK OF SITTERS.

Dear Sick: It's not fair to label all sitters "irresponsible and moronic." Some sitters are conscientious young girls who perform their duties with pride.

If you've had a dozen hollow-headed ones in six months there's something wrong with your ability to select—or you're willing to settle for any girl who has two arms, two legs and one head.

If you're unable to hire a girl with good references, then hire an older woman—with good references.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband left me and our baby son two years ago. He has not supported us and I've had to move in with my mother and go to work. He has a good paying job but he's mean and spiteful. Whenever I call him about support money he says he'll rot in jail first. I've pleaded with him for a divorce but he says "No. I'm happy the way things are."

A man I work with has fallen in love with me. He has connections in a foreign country and plans to leave for there in December. He wants to take me and the boy with him. He says nobody need know that we are not married. He will buy me a wedding ring, introduce me as his wife and change the boy's last name to his.

It all sounds so positively wonderful that there must be some sort of hitch in it. Please give me some advice. —JERI.

Dear Jeri: The hitch, my dear, is that you are a married woman. Your husband could have you stopped by the immigration authorities and prevent you from taking his child out of the country. He could also prove that you are an unfit mother and get custody of the boy.

Why don't you put your lawyers on your husband's tail and see how badly he wants to rot in jail? This makes more sense than trying to scram out of the country under a cloud of lies.

Confidential to No Eyes Left: That makes two of us. You said you could write a book. Well, you almost did. If you must cry over spilled milk will you please condense it?

CREAM ON YOUR DIET: IT'S ESSENTIAL TO BEAUTY!

Are you watching your weight? Then your complexion needs extra care! Low-fat diets, plus harsh weather and overheated rooms, rob skin of natural moisture. Result? Flaky patches, little lines, crow's feet. But with POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM you can maintain a reservoir of precious oils and moisture within the skin. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that floats off lifeless surface cells, speeds deep penetration of Pond's moisturized lanolin. Dried-out, thirsty tissues in the skin's sub-surface are revitalized . . . and almost overnight, your complexion looks softer, smoother, younger. Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Advt.

New Guinea Not Ready for Independence Says High Commissioner from Australia

Australia's vigorous measures to advance the people of New Guinea to the point where they can determine their own future were described by Mr. D. O. Hay, Australian high commissioner, speaking to members of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria Tuesday afternoon in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall.

"The people of New Guinea are still for the most part living in a primitive state" explained the Commissioner.

He continued "It will be a long time before a firm and broad basis of independence can be established."

Mr. Hay stated that the United Nations is presently taking an avid interest in the administration of colonial territories and was urging the colonial powers to hasten the grant of independence to all dependent people. "Measures are now being taken by the Australian government for the training of teachers to educate the native inhabitants; the building of hospitals and schools and the establishing of elected local councils."

He added, "For the first time this year, a Legislative Council for the whole of New Guinea has been established on the basis of counrty-wide elections.

Teaching the natives to communicate in a common language was one of the main problems which faced Australia when it accepted the obligation to promote the welfare and social and political advancement of New Guinea. "At first it was a pigeon-English which was utilized, but slowly we are setting the groundwork through education for a basic common language," said Mr. Hay.

Summarizing, the High Commissioner warned "If the people of New Guinea are given their independence too soon, the country will be exposed to infiltration of Communism!

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. R. G. McKee. Dr. Olga Jardine, president was in the chair.

Victorians Attend Mill Bay Wedding

Mill Bay United Church was colorfully decorated with chrysanthemums for the marriage of Mary Caroline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robert Cavin, Cobble Hill, and Dale LeRoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Plunet, Duncan.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Lea Gillard, of Shawnigan Lake.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white street-length gown, with shirred top and a full nylon over taffeta skirt. Her shoulder length nylon net veil was held by orange blossom. She wore a necklace belonging to her maternal great-great-great-great grandmother, and carried a bouquet of peppermint stick carnations and red gladioli.

Mrs. Jeffery Bulcock, Fairbridge, was matron-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Heather Ann Banks, Duncan, and Miss Sandra Maureen Cavin, Fanny Bay, cousin of the bride. Miss Betty Ann Cavin, Cobble Hill, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Jack Cotterill, of Duncan, was best man and ushers were Bud Plunet, brother of the groom, Lloyd Dayley and De Lynn Dayley, Nanaimo.

A reception followed at the Cobble Hill Hall. The toast to the bride was given by Mr. Sidney Samuelson, of Victoria.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stanley, and Donna, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. S. Samuelson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jay, and Diane, all of Victoria.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Turnbull have returned to their home at 1926 San Juan after spending several months travelling in England, Scotland and on the Continent.

Crisp Fall Days Need Hearty Fare

Summer and its light, airy foods are only a memory now. These crisp fall days call for hearty, satisfying food for all the family. Food for entertaining also changes in character and those Sunday night suppers are especially fun for these autumn weekends. Start the season right with a pancake supper—it's easy, fun and economical, too!

SUNDAY NIGHT PANCAKES

(Makes 4 Servings)

Pineapple Sauce:

Pineapple juice (drained from pineapple slices), ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, dash of allspice, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, few drops yellow food coloring.

Pancakes:

One cup milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening, 1 cup pancake mix. Cooked bacon, sauteed pineapple slices.

Add enough water to pineapple juice to make 2 cups liquid; place in small saucepan. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened.

For pancakes, place milk, egg and shortening in a shaker or glass jar. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add pancake mix; shake vigorously 10 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Pour batter onto a hot, lightly greased griddle to form 8 pancakes. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

Serve with bacon strips, sauteed pineapple slices and hot pineapple sauce.

Note: Count your guests and make adequate pineapple sauce in advance. This "shaker method" pancake recipe is easy so just keep mixing until all appetites are satisfied.

SUNSET PEACH PANCAKES

(Makes 6 Servings)

Pancakes:

One cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup pancake mix, 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Topping:

One cup whipping cream, ½ cup maple-blended syrup, 1 10-oz. package frozen peaches, drained.

For the pancakes, place milk, egg, pancake mix and melted butter in shaker or glass jar. Shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Pour about 1 tablespoon batter for each pancake onto a hot lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

For the topping, whip the cream; lightly stir in maple-blended syrup.

To serve, overlap 5 or 6 small pancakes on each plate. Place peaches and whipped cream mixture on each serving.

WAFFLEY GOOD SUNDAES

(Makes 6 Servings)

Almond-Syrup:

Third of a cup slivered almonds, 1 cup maple-blended syrup.

Waffles:

One cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup pancake mix, 3 tablespoons melted butter.

Topping:

One and a half pints vanilla ice cream.

For the almond-syrup, lightly brown slivered almonds in a little butter. Add maple-blended syrup to almonds.

For the waffles, place milk, egg, pancake mix and melted butter in a shaker or glass jar. Shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Bake in hot waffle iron until steaming stops.

To serve, place a spoon of ice cream on each waffle; top with almond-syrup (either hot or cold).

FRENCH PANCAKES

(Makes 6 to 8 servings.)

3 eggs, beaten; ½ cup milk, ½ cup pancake mix, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Combine beaten eggs and milk. Add pancake mix and grated lemon rind, stirring until smooth. Place about a teaspoonful of butter in a small frying pan and heat until the butter bubbles. Pour in enough batter to coat bottom of the pan with a thin layer. Bake until delicately browned on under side; turn and bake on other side. Roll up; serve with hot cherry sauce.

To make the cherry sauce heat one package frozen dark cherries or one No. 2 can dark cherries. Mix together thoroughly ½ cup sugar and two tablespoons cornstarch. Add gradually to cherries, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

ORANGE-COCONUT SAUCE

Combine 1½ cups sugar, 1½ cups orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil; cook slowly for about 10 minutes. Serve warm or cold over dollar-sized dessert pancakes. Sprinkle with shredded coconut.

Expert Says

Women Should Know Meat Cuts

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—The largest part of the food dollar goes for meat, yet many women neglect to learn the various cuts and their uses, says Martha Logan, home economist with a Canadian meat company.

Women should read about and study the various cuts to understand proper use and the best method of preparing them, she says.

A graduate of University of Manitoba whose real name is Greta Wiener — "I've always been razzed about my name, even before I came into this business."

There are two methods of cooking meat: the dry-heat method for the most tender cuts and the moist-heat method for less tender cuts.

NO MOISTURE

"If any moisture is added or if a lid is put on the pot, the meat is not dry-roasted," Miss Logan explained.

To dry-roast, place meat in an open pan on a rack. Do not cover and don't add water. Broiling and pan-frying are also dry-heat methods. Tender cuts to be cooked this way include porterhouse steak, T-bone, sirloin, standing rib roasts or rolled rib roasts.

Less tender cuts of beef such as rump, chuck, flank steak or round steak require the presence of steam or water and need to be cooked longer. Braising, pot-roasting or water-cooking are the moist-heat methods.

Tender cuts of beef are required if the meat is to be served rare. That's because they require less cooking time.

NEEDN'T BE LEAN

Many people want lean cuts of meat but these are not always best, she says. A good layer of fat and marbling are usually signs of a good cut. Nor is meat with the brightest color always better. "Color has little to do with it."

When buying meat, allow three-quarters of a pound for each person if it contains bone and one-half pound for boneless cuts. About a quarter of a pound of hamburg is usually sufficient.

For storage wrap meat loosely and place in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Miss Logan says she likes to avoid freezing meat if possible. But when freezing it should be done quickly.

For accurate roasting times, Miss Logan recommends a meat thermometer. It should be inserted into the thickest par of the meat, not touching the bone. Check before removing the roast to be sure the thermometer has not been displaced.

Bursary Winner Announced

It was announced at the recent Royal Roads Chapter, IODE meeting that Ross Maconachie was awarded the $150 George H. Gardiner bursary. It was also announced that the chapter has planned a bazaar and tea to be held Saturday, Oct. 28 in Newstead Hall, Fort Street. Mrs. D. E. Teng will be general convener.

Two letters were read from the chapter's adopted refugee children, reports were made of a Christmas parcel to be sent to a Canadian veteran in England, and parcels of clothing and books that have been sent overseas. A donation will be made to the third IODE Community Hall at Baker Lake.

'Charm Can't Be Bought'

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Charm cant' be bought, but it can be developed," says Camille Hendon, a Los Angeles charm lecturer.

Charm is the development of good speech, bearing, social graces and in general the development of all-round poise," she said.

St. Mary's To Mark 50th Year

St. Mary's Women's Parish Guild, Oak Bay, will celebrate its 50th Anniversary on Oct. 18, and as a token of appreciation for the wonderful support given their endeavours throughout the years they cordially invite all members of the congregation to an "at home," in the parish hall, Elgin Road, on Oct. 18 from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m.

Newcomers to the parish will be especially welcome. Guests will be received by the Rector's wife, Mrs. H. J. Jones, and president of the Guild, Mrs. T. W. Kensington.

Try Shaker Method For Fluffy Pancakes

Pancake fans all over the country have found that the much talked-about shaker method is a real energy-saver.

This method was based on the idea that 'tis easier to shake than stir, so why stir? In case you've never tried it, all you do is put all your ingredients in a shaker . . . milk, eggs, shortening, ready-mix . . . just dump everything in and shake 'em up—about a dozen times—and there's your batter readyto-pour.

It's much master and easier than the old mixing-bowl-and-spoon method, and just look at the delicious results. You see, it's been proved that slightly lumpy batter makes lighter, fluffier pancakes, and the shaker method blends your batter just right.

Most plastic or glass shakers will do the trick, although plastic, wide-mouthed ones (marked for quantities, if possible) are best. Try shaking up your pancakes sometime!

Bridge Tea On Oct. 25

Man of Destiny in Balance

Mac's Cabinet Switch Has U.K. Guessing

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press

Prime Minister Macmillan leaves them guessing once again.

His latest cabinet reconstruction—as subtle and as enigmatic as his own character—is open to varying interpretations.

* * *

Probably the prime minister planned it that way. Sipping his habitual whisky and soda at Admiralty House, he can indulge in the luxury of a quiet chuckle as he surveys the embarrassment of the commentators in trying to decide wether it's promotion or demotion for R. A. Butler and Iain Macleod.

"Who's gone up? Who down?" asks the London Daily Telegraph, and the mystification is general.

* * *

Both Butler and Macleod give up important posts in return for something new, and nobody can say for sure who will turn out to be the Conservative party's man of destiny.

The 58-year-old Butler, unexpectedly passed over when Macmillan succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister after the Suez crisis, loses two big jobs—leader of the Commons and chairman of the Conservative party organization.

* * *

. . . up?

R. A. BUTLER
. . . down?

In return, Butler is to give special assistance to Macmillan in a "wide range of duties," including acting as a kind of overlord in connection with Britain's negotiations for membership in the European Economic Community.

MacLeod, 38, next month, takes up the two duties Butler has relinquished and yields his own colonial secretary's post to Reginald Maudling, regarded by the Conservative right wing as a "safer man."

* * *

Thus Macleod will be the man responsible for giving a new sheen to the Conservative image in preparation for the next election, probably in 1964. Conservative popularity has slumped after 10 years in office and the opposition Labor party now seems less interested in slow suicide.

Superficially Butler may seem to be losing most—but he smilingly repudiates the thought that he is being removed from a position of "central influence." It is possible to forecast that in his new position as Macmillan's close association he could become the indispensable man.

* * *

In Macleod's case, there is regret in liberal and Africa circles that he is being removed from the colonial office, where he has shown skill and determination in hastening African advancement.

Perhaps his most bitter opponent has been Sir Roy Welensky, prime Minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. Many will regard Macleod's move as a personal triumph for Sir Roy and his "London lobby."

* * *

On balance, Macleod seems the man to watch in future. His greatest asset is that he represents the more progressive elements which probably are the party's surest guarantee of future electoral success.

Syria Regime Recognized By the U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States yesterday extended formal diplomatic recognition to the new rebel government of Syria.

Russia extended diplomatic recognition three days ago. Other Communist countries which have recognized Syria include Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania.

Damascus also has established diplomatic ties with Jordan, Turkey, Iran, Nationalist China, Guatemala and Iraq.

Syria asked the United Nations Monday to re-establish its membership, surrendered when it merged with Egypt in 1958.

Volcano Erupts

Fear Comes To Tiny Isle

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — The 260 inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha were safely evacuated Tuesday night as its long-dormant volcano erupted, belching lava over the tiny South Atlantic island.

STILL ERUPTING

The rescue ships reported late Tuesday night that the volcano was still "erupting perilously."

Known as "the loneliest island in the world," Tristan da Cunha is a British-ruled territory situated halfway beween South Africa and South America.

'ADMIRABLE CALM'

The rescue ships brought the islanders 18 miles away to Nightingale Island, a mile-long uninhabited outcrop of rock. A Dutch vessel, the Tjisadane, will take the islanders to Cape Town today.

A report from one rescue ship said the 6,760-foot volcano "pushed up 150 feet of lava, flowing freely and smoking." No one was hurt in the eruption, the report said.

Angry at Boss

Berserk Workman Kills 4 in Mill

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — A Workman ran amok in a steel mill yesterday when he was suspended for talking back to his boss. He killed four men and wounded three others in a frenzied foray through the plant.

A guard shot and killed gun-waving Arbie P. Davis, 29, as he tried to break for freedom through the main gate of U.S. Steel Company's giant Gary sheet and tin mill.

"It looks like you're going to get a new boss," Davis boasted to fellow workers as he dashed through the noisy mill. "I've just shot five men."

Police Capt. George Demitroulas said Davis, a negro who had worked at the mill for six years, apparently was prepared for the shooting outburst when he went to work and showed up at a hearing in the company labor office.

SINGLE SHOT

Thirty-seven unused .38 calibre cartridges were found in his possession after he was felled with a single shot by plant guard Chester Merida 25 yards inside the main gate.

A trail of spent cartridges led from the labor office, where Davis first opened fire on two foremen and a gang leader, to the spot where he fell dead with a bullet hole behind his right ear.

In the offices, the later phases of the shooting spree spread terror among women clerical workers. Many of them, shaking and unnerved, went home.

U.S. Fires A-Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced that a nuclear test for low yield was conducted underground Tuesday at the Commission's Nevada test site.

The terse announcement gave no details.

The test is the third announced by the United States since it resumed underground blasts a few weeks ago.

Ike Had Chance To Fire Monty

LONDON (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery was lucky not to be relieved of his command by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in the last months of the Second World War, a British general suggests in a new book to be published this week.

Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, who was attached to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, tells this story in Peace and War.

Montgomery tried to pressure the Americans into letting the Allied armies advance on a narrow front. Eisenhower stood firm for a drive to the Rhine on a broad front.

Morgan one day found the late Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff, "white with passion" at his desk. On the desk lay a telephone from which a voice was crackling.

"Look, boy," Smith said. "That's your bloody marshal on the other end of that. I can't talk to him any more. Now you go on."

Morgan told Montgomery that unless he did as he was told all available supplies would be switched from the British to the Americans.

"That worked," he says. Morgan says Eisenhower could have asked Montgomery's immediate relief but, as a diplomat, he saw such a step would have damaged British-American unity.

TEST YOUR FASHION SENSE

When Canadian manufacturers' designers submitted their creations this year, buyers turned down many of them as too extreme. This week in The Star Weekly you can see some of the rejected styles. And you can vote on whether or not you'd have worn them. It's one feature in an issue packed with entertainment and information for every member of the family.

who can be a dentist?

It takes a special man or woman to meet the challenge of a dental career. He must be willing to spend long hours, both in training and every day after he receives his doctor's degree. He must have sound judgment sense, and a physical dexterity to perform the tasks required of him. And he must have a sincere sympathy for, and urge to help, his fellow man.

This is the dentist's lifetime duty: the care and protection of his community. And from his community, he will enjoy the rewards of his efforts: the satisfaction of healing, recognition by his neighbours, patients, and fellow doctors, and the opportunity to help more and more people as time goes on.

British Columbia needs dentists – needs the kind of man who will give his time and service to caring for others. Are you able to meet the challenge – and willing? Then write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As A Career.

8 CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends for their kind messages and beautiful floral tributes since the passing of my dear husband. Special thanks to Rev. Jarvis and Rev. Gillard for their comforting words, also to all the doctors, orderlies and nurses at the Veterans' Hospital, to pallbearers and First Funeral Chapel.—Alice May Hall.

The family of the late Mrs. Eleanor Elizabeth (Nellie) Kennedy wish to convey their deepest gratitude and appreciation for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement. Special thanks to Drs. Bigelow, Dr. Conn, Rev. J. H. Roberts and the staff and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital.—Duncan J. Kennedy and family, Hugh G. Kennedy and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CLAYBROOK—In loving memory of my dear husband, John, who passed away October 11, 1960.

Gone but not forgotten,
Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on His gentle breast.

—Your loving wife Norah.

HUDDLESTON—In loving memory of my husband, James Huddleston, who passed away October 10, 1960.

A light is from our household gone
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

—Ever remembered by his wife, Mary, and family.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING OPPORTUNITY
BRITISH COLUMBIA VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, VICTORIA
(Sponsored jointly by the Federal-Provincial Governments.)

VOCATIONAL PREPARATORY PROGRAMME:

This programme is designed for unemployed persons who are having difficulty in finding employment because of a low academic standing.

Depending upon the applicants accepted for training, the programme will consist of two courses:

1. To upgrade individuals of less than Grade X standing to a Grade X equivalency standing (General Programme).
2. To upgrade individuals of less than Grade XII standing to a Grade XII equivalency standing (General Programme).

The successful completion of either of these two courses may lead the person into direct employment or qualify him for entry into specific vocational training.

The courses will commence early in November, 1961, and will be in operation 8.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. A maximum of eight months is allowed for each course.

Prospective applicants must be 18 years of age, have been out of school for at least one year and must be registered as being unemployed.

Application for training must be made through the local National Employment Services office.

TV TALK

United States President John Kennedy's first press conference in six weeks will be shown at 12.30 p.m. today.

The conference will include a discussion of the Berlin crisis, the cold war, advisability of fall-out shelters and domestic problems.

All three United States networks will carry the press conference "live."

"If you're looking up tonight's TV shows, brother—forget it."

Highlights

10.00 p.m. — Bob Newhart. The inventor of the button-down mind begins a new weekly series, featuring music, topical sketches and Bob's own brand of quietly mad monologue — 5. CBC Newsmagazine has Norman DePoe reporting on various aspects of nuclear fallout—2.

10.30 — Brinkley's Journal. Films of some national eyesores start off Brinkley's new series.

Wednesday's Movies

9.30 a.m.—"My Little Chickadee" (1940 musical drama), Mae West—4.

3.30 p.m.—Movie to be announced—5.

5.00—"Never Say Die" (1935 comedy drama), Bob Hope—8.

5.30—"Brother Rat" (1938 comedy drama), Priscilla Lane—12.

6.30 — "City of Shadows" (1955 drama), Victor McLaglen—6.

9.30—"This Think Called Love" (1941 comedy drama), Rosalind Russell—11.

10.45—"Unfinished Business" (1941 drama), Irene Dunne—8.

11.00—"The Malta Story" (1954 English drama), Alec Guinness—12.

11.30—"A Woman's Devotion" (1956 melodrama), Ralph Meeker—4; "Dragonfly Squadron" (1954 drama), John Hodiak—7; "Beware, My Lovely" (1952 mystery drama), Ida Lupino—11.

11.35 — "British Playbill" (1946 English comedy drama), George Formby—2.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

There are a number of routine plays which an experienced player makes in his sleep. Occasionally he finds that he has made a routine play in his sleep which he would not have made if he had been awake. With that clue, it should be easy for you to spot the right plan for South when the king of diamonds is led against four spades.

Vul: Both

NORTH
♠ 6 5 3 2
♡ J 5 3 2
◇ 7 4
♣ A 7 4

WEST (D)
♠ 9
♡ A Q 10 9 4
◇ K Q 10 9
♣ J 10 5

EAST
♠ J 7 4
♡ 8 6
◇ 8 6 5 2
♣ Q 9 6 3

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 10 8
♡ K 7
◇ A J 3
♣ K 8 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
All Pass

Opening lead: ◇ K

A bid of simply one spade in South's position, when the opening bid has been passed, can be made on slender values in the knowledge that partner is virtually certain to have a fair hand. It follows that a jump to two spades need not be quite as strong as it would be as an immediate overcall. South's hand is therefore far too strong for two spades, which he could bid if the ace of diamonds was removed from his holding, even allowing for the fact that his heart king has been devalued by the bid on his left. The normal action would be to double and bid the spades later, a sequence which always shows a powerful hand.

But there is an alternative. Two no-trump is a good natural bid, which should not be regarded as an unusual no-trump asking for a minor suit, but three no-trump cannot be beaten while four spades fails on an inspired lead.

South automatically made the standard play of allowing the king of diamonds to hold. This preserves South's ace-jack combination, and prepares for a ruff—but is quite wrong. West shifted to the jack of clubs, and the defence had no trouble in collecting a club and two hearts in addition to the diamond trick. South should realize that his tenth trick must come from the heart suit, and that he must establish his heart trick before a club trick is available for the defence. The right play is simply to win the first trick, draw trumps, and lead the king of hearts. West can then shift to a club, but time is now on declarer's side.

Advisers Study Service Colleges

OTTAWA (CP) — Prominent citizens representing all provinces will join senior government and military officials Friday at St. Johns, Que., for the annual meeting of the Canadian Services Colleges advisory board.

The board, formed in 1954, advises and makes recommendations to the defence minister on all matters pertaining to the three services colleges, including Royal Roads.

No Sales Tax Says Manning

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Manning says the government has no plans to implement a sales tax in Alberta. He said the government, faced with rising costs, must look to other sources of income but there has never been any suggestion of a sales tax.

Plan for Wells Drought Solution

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal-provincial program to give impetus to drilling of community water wells in the Prairie provinces was announced Tuesday. The move was taken in the wake of last summer's drought which left many municipalities facing grave shortages of water for livestock and domestic use.

Did Red Agents Kill Former UN Official?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate sub-committee—raising the question "murder or suicide?"—has suggested that former United Nations official Povl Bang-Jensetn may have been slain by Soviet agents.

The Senate internal security sub-committee, looking into the Danish diplomat's mysterious death two years ago, challenged the verdict of suicide.

"There are too many solid arguments against suicide," the sub-committee said.

In New York, a police spokesman said "the case is still open as far as we're concerned."

The 120-page report described the 50-year-old diplomat's role as secretary of the UN special committee investigating the 1956 Hungarian revolution, his subsequent quarrel with UN superiors, and finally the circumstances of his death.

"About the most that can be said on the basis of information available today," the report said, "is that it is still unclear whether it was suicide or murder."

Bang-Jensen left his home Monday morning, Nov. 23, 1959, for his office. He was employed at that time by C.A.R.E., a charitable organization. Three days later, on U.S. Thanksgiving morning, his body was found in a Queen's park. He had been shot in the right temple with his own gun and there was a suicide note in his pocket.

Medical experts said Bang-Jensen died about 48 hours after he left his home.

The Soviets, said the report, had good reason to kidnap Bang-Jensen to pry from him what he knew about Communist infiltration in the United Nations' staff and in U.S. intelligence agencies — and how much of this knowledge he had handed on to American authorities.

"And if Bang-Jensen was taken into custody for such interrogation, his liquidation would have been an inevitable sequel," said the report.

Bang-Jensen first came to world attention in December, 1957, when he was suspended by Dag Hammarskjold, the late UN secretary-general, because he refused to turn over the list of witnesses who testified anonymously before the UN special committee on Hungary.

A month later the list was dramatically burned on the roof of the UN building as a result of a compromise between Bang-Jensen and Hammarskjold. Subsequently he was dismissed for "insubordination."

World Endangered Say Nobel Winners

OSLO (AP)—All seven living winners of a Nobel peace prize and the five members of the Nobel peace prize committee of the Norwegian parliament published a declaration of peace here.

The statement, addressed to world leaders, said:

"The peace of the world is seriously threatened. In this situation of grave danger we implore the statesmen of all countries to show moderation in order that a catastrophe may be avoided. We beg you to remember the responsibility that you bear toward the entire human race and urge you most vehemently to exercise restraint and mutual forbearance."

It is signed by Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Liberal party leader; Sir Norman Angell, Lord Boyd Orr, Ralph J. Bunche, Philip Noel-Baker, Rev. Dominique Georges Pire, Albert Schweitzer and committee members C. J. Hambro, Gunnar Jahn, Aase Lionaes, G. Natvig-Pedersen and Martin Tranmael.

The first 37 students have graduated from a training centre for farm mechanics started in The Congo in April.

Dig Glad Bulbs Now

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the jobs I managed to get done over the long weekend was the lifting and storing of my gladiolus bulbs. There doesn't seem to be any general agreement among the glad specialists and experts as to the correct time for lifting, and for some years now I have been more or less "flying by the seat of my pants," so to speak — digging the glad bulbs when I feel the time is ripe.

Newcomers to gladiolus growing find it hard to understand individual bulbs of flowering age last for only one single year. This doesn't mean that your money goes down the drain, for the gladiolus plant, after exhausting all the goodness in the bulb and draining it dry, proceeds to manufacture a new bulb which sits up on top of the old, worn-out one.

* * *

The plant does most of its plumping up of the new bulb in the period immediately following the fading or cutting of the flower spike and needs a minimum of three weeks to reach maximum size and maturity. This is a minimum, though, and I give my glads as much more time as I dare, but lifting can be a miserable job after the fall rains start in earnest and the garden becomes a sea of sloppy mud, so I hoick mine out the first good chance that comes along after the three-week plumping-up period.

In bygone days, it was the custom to bundle up the lifted glads, complete with tops, and hang them to a rafter in the basement for the winter. Nowadays we cut off the tops to within an inch of the bulb as soon as we get them out of the ground to prevent the sap-sucking thrips from moving down from the foliage into the bulbs. The tops are useless for the compost heap and are best stacked to dry out, then burnt.

One very common mistake made by novice gardeners is to bung their lifted glad bulbs into cool storage straight away, which often gives rise to a lot of queer moulds and rots.

* * *

The bulbs need a curing period of about three weeks in a warm but airy place at a temperature between 75 and 80 degrees. I stack mine in shallow boxes or trays, not more than three layers of bulbs to the box so all are exposed to the air, and store them in my cosy furnace room for this curing period. I have a small portable electric fan and when I think of it — which isn't often — I turn the thing on to run for about an hour a day blowing a current of air across and through my bulbs to speed up the curing.

There is a simple test that will indicate when curing is completed. If you pick up a bulb, you will see that you have actually two bulbs in your hand — the fresh, plump, new bulb which you will plant next spring and clinging to the bottom of it will be last year's dried-up old bulb — the one you planted last spring. See if you can twist the old bulb away from the new — if it comes away cleanly and all in one piece, your corms are matured and ready to go into cool storage.

If you meet much resistance in trying to separate the old from the new bulb, better give your gladiolus corms another week in the warmth, then try it again.

* * *

The cleaning of the bulbs is most important and I will be writing about this in detail a bit later in the season. In short, the old bulb and roots are removed — to be taken away and burnt — together with any loose or ragged outer skin, and the bulbs given a thorough dusting with a combination bug-killer and fungicidal dust. Rose dust, potato dust, bulb dust and Spergon gladiolus dust all work well and I have some preference for a formula that includes the fungicide Captan as one of its ingredients, for this chemical seems to put an extra sparkle into next year's flowers. In dusting the bulbs, pay particular attention to the soft, fleshy scar where the old and new bulbs were joined, for this is a vulnerable spot for the entrance of pests and disease organisms.

I have never found anything better for the cool storage of the bulbs than old nylon stockings, each labelled as to variety, hung in a very cool corner of the basement; ideal temperature is around 40 degrees. A bit more warmth won't hurt too much, but a too-high temperature will start the bulbs sprouting far too early in the season.

Shoot Thy Neighbor!

NEW YORK—How many of your friends are building air raid shelters? I don't know a soul. Greenwich Village is not receptive to earthworks of any sort. (No earth.) Besides, your Greenwich Villager is philosophically far more receptive toward rushing to the defence of old buildings, or high ethical principles, or free love, or civil liberties, or even his immortal soul more readily than to worry about his scarred body.

But meanwhile around the rest of the U.S. the argument rages: what do we do about the improvident neighbor beating at our door, after the bombs come? While the air raid shelter owner was toiling like a mole underground, the improvident neighbor was out dancing. Going to the ball game. Living. Now he wants in. What do you do about him?

* * *

The question has now been answered. Mow him down. "Eyewitness," CBS's excellent documentary series, last Friday broadcast a jolly report on the physical, social and moral implications of life underground, well calculated to ruin everyone's weekend.

"If it comes to a matter of survival, must a man make room for his neighbor?" asked Walter Cronkite. This question was directed at a Jesuit priest, the Rev. L. C. McHugh, who declared benignly: "If the emergency called for the kind of action that involved using a revolver in order to protect yourself and your family, I would say this could be permitted as an extreme measure."

* * *

CBS reporter Hughes Rudd commented: "A lot of people I'm sure, would consider that a rather non-Christian view of the human condition, wouldn't they?"

"Self preservation," explained Father McHugh, "is the first law of nature—and the Gospel does not rescind that law by counselling turning the other cheek or loving your neighbor as yourself to the extent, therefore, that in emergency you give up what is necessary to protect your own life in order to save his."

* * *

A number of other people on that program counselled using guns. A shelter-builder of Darien, Conn., named Joseph Fiala had a gun as part of his equipment and said he'd view intruders as he would a burglar. In short, he'd shoot. "This may be the cold-blooded way of looking at it. But until more people have shelters, this is going to be the psychology that prevails."

A more emotional answer came from Dr. Hugh Kellner, a German refugee, who has built what Cronkite called the Hilton of fallout shelters outside Caledonia, New York, with 12 rooms. He would defend it, he said passionately, with a gun, arguing that people trying to get in were "criminals."

Not everyone was so nasty. There was a nice young couple named the Harry Earles who were revolted by the very idea of shooting their neighbors. The Earles decided they'd build no shelter like moles; they'd take their chances above ground. "Building a shelter is an admission of defeat," said Mrs. Earle. "Man is admitting man can't live with his fellow man. There must be a more Christian solution to the problem than this."

I'm with the Earles. I don't think I'd like to be interred even temporarily with the kind of people who seem to be building air raid shelters. At least if the ones who seem to be hitting the public prints and the TV screens are representative of the shelter crowd. Not my sort of folks at all.

I wouldn't be caught dead in an air raid shelter with that German refugee, Dr. Kellner. He doesn't want me and I don't want him so that makes us even.

* * *

A few other notes on the air raid shelter belt. Marvin Kalb in Moscow reported that Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev have deep subway systems but little else in the way of civil defence in all of Russia. That make you feel better? Springfield, Mass., has its own giddy solution to this problem. Air raid shelters—at least all those proposed by the civil defence crowd—have been declared to be in violation of the building code in Springfield.

Hollywood Today

Extra Pounds Lose Role

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Sandra Dee is a sad young matron since she lost the important young-girl lead in Ross Hunter's production of "The Chalk Garden." Sandra gained a few pounds during her "Tammy Tell Me True," and before she became an expectant mother. Question is, will she become her pre-marriage sylphlike self after the baby arrives in December? I hope so . . . Meanwhile young Hayley Mills is delighted to get the role those extra pounds lost for Sandra.

* * *

There's a story behind the making of Arthur Miller's "View From the Bridge" into a movie. At the time the play was for sale, Arthur was having political trouble in Washington. So, there were no takers in Hollywood. And MCA sold it to an independent producer for practically nothing. Arthur was later in the clear, especially after his marriage to Marilyn Monroe. His agents tried to buy the play back for $500,000. No sale. The film starring Carol Lawrence is expected to make a fortune.

* * *

The Mirisch brothers, hardly known a few years ago, will have at least three movies this year for Oscar consideration—"The Children's Hour" with Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine; Billy Wilder's "One, Two, Three," and "West Side Story."

* * *

Twentieth Century-Fox is doing everything so that Elizabeth Taylor will have nothing on her mind until she completes "Cleopatra." The lawsuit against the British insurance companies who failed to pay when Cleo didn't play, has been postponed until next year. 20th is suing nine insurance companies for a total of $2,000,000.

U.S Doctors Discount Dangers of Aspirin In New Experiments

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The newest scientific-test word in the great aspirin controversy is that America's best-loved pill can cause internal bleeding but the amounts of blood lost internally are not nearly enough to be threatening — provided the aspirin-taking is moderate.

AMOUNTS ESTABLISHED

Drs. Richard M. Watson and Richard N. Pierson, Jr., of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, did their newest experimenting with people who are the most endangered by any kind of bleeding. These are people required to take drugs to keep their blood in non-clottable condition.

First, and with precise measurements, they established the amounts of spontaneous, barely detectable internal bleeding.

NOT DANGEROUS

Then the group took two aspirin tablets four times a day for three days and the measurements were repeated. In statistical terms, the mean internal blood loss of the group was increased by two and one-half "standard deviations." Since the original amounts were extremely tiny, this was not considered a dangerous increase.

The same scientists previously had conducted identical tests in 131 healthy volunteers.

The mean increase in blood loss in these healthy volunteers after they had taken eight aspirin tablets daily for three days also was two and one-half "standard deviations." Therefore, the scientists said, aspirin did not add to the hazards of persons taking anticoagulants.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Firemen For Army?

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday the federal government is considering establishment of a permanent fire-fighting corps in the Canadian army to rush to the assistance of provinces faced with serious forest fires.

He made the statement in reply to a question at a press conference here about whether Newfoundland will be asked to pay the bill for more than 1,000 men and military equipment used this summer in battling the province's fires.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is usual for the provinces to pay the costs incurred by the defence department in such emergencies, but there have been cases in which the bills have been allowed to go unpaid.

Bold Decision Made:

Movie Moguls Mar Morals

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Decency be damned!

That pretty well sums up the attitude of today's motion picture makers, following on the heels of new production code changes.

From now on films, in the name of art, will be free to screen stories on moral degenerates and homosexuals. Last week the Motion Picture Association of America gave approval to "the subject of sex aberration, provided any references are treated with care, discretion and restraint and in all other aspects conform to the code."

* * *

How can anyone depict sex offenders discreetly or with restraint?

Answer "The board feels that under the code, the matter may be handled as acceptably, as morally, as in other media of expression . . . radio and television, newspapers and magazines, books and plays."

The motion picture industry is fighting for its very life—and fighting dirty.

If the public, particularly impressionable young people, will go to movies only to see shocking, sex-themed films, then that is what Hollywood will give them.

* * *

How far can movies sink to fan the box-office flame?

In another couple of years moviegoers will be bored by sexual aberration pictures too. After that it could be stag reels with dramatic lighting. Fun for the whole family!

The MPAA and Johnston are not responsible to the public. They are paid by the movie industry. They are not guardians, much less protectors, of public decency.

* * *

The code is most clear on the subject. One section states: "Sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden." But the increasingly discredited film moguls now will be able to skirt the rule.

Scots Provide Musical Treat

By BERT BINNY

The brightest and liveliest White Heather concert party in the last few years kept a full house at the Royal Theatre thoroughly happy all Monday evening.

It had so much more entertainment value than, for example, that which was here last season.

FINE START

Affairs got off to a fine start with the pipes and drums of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and a comely collection of Highland dancers from the Adeline Duncan studios in Victoria.

Emcee and comedian Jimmie Warren seemed to be just bursting with verbal antics whether delivered in song, story or in the form of lightning ad libs and it is well worth mention that he has a lovely singing voice which came to light only on the few brief occasions when he deserted his comedy approach.

* * *

White Heather Concert Party Great Success

Bobby MacLeod's accordion provided a real musical treat and Dennis Woolford, one of the hardy perennials of the party, as piano soloist and accompanist was superb.

Lovely soprano Moira Anderson displayed a most pleasing voice always under excellent control.

Character satirist Duncan Macrae, with far more readily understandable material than last year, was an unqualified success.

BEST ADVERTISEMENT

Scotland's foremost tenor Kenneth McKellar did not always seem to be at his known best but this can happen without severely impairing his well-deserved reputation as a singer of world-wide note.

There is no doubt whatever that this 1961 White Heather group has proved the best advertisement in the world for that of 1962.

Theatre To Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for parts in "Don Juan in Hell" will be held at the Langham Court Theatre at 7.30 p.m. Thursday under director Bert Williams.

"Don Juan in Hell," actually the third act of George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," is due for production as a reading after presentation of "The Chalk Garden" now in rehearsal.

There are parts for five men and four women.

Police Probe Double Death

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—City police late Tuesday were investigating what they described as a possible murder suicide of a mother and son.

The body of Mrs. Georgina Blanchette, 77, was found on a chesterfield in the front part of the home and her son Peter, 43, in a bedroom at the rear of the house. A pistol was found near his body.

Chinese Traders Get Ottawa's Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, still not granting diplomatic recognition to Communist China, is willing to help her sell more to this country.

* * *

Communists Reach Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 13-man trade delegation from Communist China arrived here by air Tuesday night en route to Ottawa where they will discuss trade with Canadian government authorities.

Following the visit to Ottawa, the mission will travel to other major cities across Canada for a first-hand look at industrial and manufacturing plants.

JAPANESE ENVOY

Arriving aboard the same flight was the Japanese ambassador to Canada, Nobuhiko Ushiba.

Two medical professors from Thailand—Dr. Svasti Daengsvang, rector of the University of Medical Science in Bangkok, and Dr. Swasdi Skulthai, dear designate of the university and professor of childbirth at Bangkok Hospital—also were aboard. They will study at the medical faculty of the University of British Columbia for two months.

Trade Minister Hees said Tuesday his departmental officials will do all they can to facilitate the work of a 13-man Chinese trade mission which is scheduled to arrive here tonight.

MORE MARKETS

The delegation wants to learn more about Canadian grain handling methods and to look for markets for more Chinese exports.

Canada's purchases from the Chinese mainland last year amounted to about $6,000,000, mostly in peanuts, walnuts, rice and cotton goods. Canadian exports to China last year were $9,000,000.

WHEAT, BARLEY

But this year Canada obtained a commitment from China to take $400,000,000 worth of wheat and barley over a 30-month period and is anxious to sell more.

The trade mission is composed of two groups — five men who will be guests of the Canadian Wheat Board and interested in winter storage practices, and eight looking at the general trade picture with emphasis on a search for new markets.

Mr. Hees said the government is willing to extend the same facilities to the Chinese traders as it would to a trade mission from any country—supplying information about Canadian markets and normal commercial arrangements.

He had looked at Chinese exports to Canada and found few things that would compete with Canadian production.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Since Canada is selling so much grain to China, the government recognizes the Communists' need of selling more to Canada to earn foreign exchange, he said.

Reluctant Jurors Reprimanded

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. judge Tuesday described jury duty as "one of the responsibilities of living in a democratic society."

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan was speaking to a panel of 125 men, called for the assize court trial of George Caldough on charges of fraud and conspiracy involving some $385,000. The judge's comments were prompted by many requests from the panel for exemption from duty.

The trial, originally scheduled for Sept. 25, was set back when the judge learned Caldough's defence had tampered with the panel chosen then for jury duty.

900 Exhibits

Lengthy Conspiracy Trial Indicated

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Crown intends to present nearly 900 exhibits in its case against three men and three companies charged with stock fraud and conspiracy, Crown Counsel George Murray told an Assize Court jury Tuesday at the opening of the trial.

George Caldough, Roland Smith, Leonard Udell and three companies face eight counts of conspiracy and fraud involving an alleged $385,000, Mr. Murray said in outlining the Crown's case.

He said he would call a number of witnesses and added that the trial, of necessity, might be a lengthy one.

Among witnesses, he said, will be former office employees, accountants, government officials and others, who will give new evidence in regard to company operations in Vancouver, Whitehorse and elsewhere.

Mr. Murray told the jury that some of the evidence will deal with what he termed a "vast amount" of literature. He said four witnesses from various parts of the United States will not be able to give evidence in person, but evidence they gave at the earlier preliminary hearing will be read in court.

He said this would involve reading of some 300 pages of testimony.

FRIEND FLYNN DIES

Caldough, a former North Vancouver promoter who was arrested in England and returned to Canada to face trial, came into public prominence here about two years ago when actor Errol Flynn died suddenly while being entertained by Caldough.

Most of Tuesday's court proceedings were devoted to selection of a 12-man jury, during which the judge on the bench described jury duty as "one of the responsibilities of living in a democratic society."

Bellhop Bests Bandits

VANCOUVER (CP) — A hotel bellhop Tuesday played a desperate game of tug-of-war with two bandits on a downtown street with $6,000 at stake—and [illegible]on.

Bill Aomoto, 28, and clerk Mrs. Gwen Krentner left the Castle Hotel on Granville Street to deposit the money in a bank. About 20 yards from the bank two men attacked them.

Mrs. Krentner, who is pregnant, was pushed face first against a wall by one of the attackers while the other punched Aomoto to the ground.

"The man tried to snatch the money, but I refused to let go," said Aomoto. "Fortunately he gave up first."

He said the attackers then fled into an alley and disappeared.

Ease Taxes Keep Brains Canada Told

VANCOUVER (UPI) — An oil industry executive Tuesday suggested turning Canada into a "tax haven" for industrial research to keep laboratory talent in this country.

Imperial Oil president W. O. Twaits said a suitable tax concession would provide an incentive for [illegible]aining the best Canadian b[illegible]ns at home.

It would [illegible]so provide necessary re[illegible]ch to maintain Canada's [illegible]mpetitive position and hel[illegible] attract investment capital.

He said the liberalizing of the amount corporations can spend on research was "one of the most constructive changes in the last federal budget."

Good Citizens

Bank Staffs Hailed By United Appeal

Employees of two Greater Victoria bank branches are the latest groups to be cited for awards in the industrial and commercial employees division of the United Appeal drive.

Employee groups whose participation in the drive exceeds 80 per cent are awarded "good citizens" plaques at the close of the drive.

Latest groups to qualify are the workers at the 1517 Douglas Street branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the Oak Bay branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Group chairman E. C. Brown reports the 29 employees of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce donated a total of $321. Fourteen employees of the Bank of Montreal gave $87 to the drive.

Bonner Asks Doctors

B.C. Eyes Sterilization Law

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney General Bonner has asked B.C. doctors to recommend changes in the provincial law governing sterilization of women.

He said here Tuesday the government was willing to study the act and he recommended a brief be sent Health Minister Martin.

Earlier a committee of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association proposed at its annual meeting in Kamloops that B.C.'s Sexual Sterilization Act be revised and expanded.

Dr. John Dickinson, chairman of the committee, said doctors were working under a cloud. He said current law applies only to inmates in mental and penal institutions.

Where there is a possibility of an inmate passing mental illness to a future child, the act says sterilization may be undertaken after patient or guardian permission is received. Approval then is given by a three-man board set up under the act.

Dr. Dickinson said there is no law prohibiting sterilization of a woman where her life is threatened by pregnancy.

He said such operations now are undertaken where two doctors are in agreement they are necessary and the patients consent.

But no law, he added, spells out under what conditions it may be done.

Downtown Parking Plan For 600 Cars Passes

City council's plan to provide off-street parking downtown for 600 cars passed the last obstacle over the week end, and city officials yesterday took the first steps to implement the plan

FORMAL APPROVAL

Two certified copies of the $1,115,000 bylaw were sent to the municipal affairs department yesterday morning for formal approval and city comptroller-treasurer James Bramley began arranging for the printing of the necessary bonds.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said city council will take action on the acquisition of the two downtown sites needed for the garages at a special meeting to be held tomorrow.

DEADLINE GONE

Deadline for legal action to quash the bylaw was midnight Saturday. City Hall was closed Monday for the Tranksgiving Day holiday.

"This is going to take time," Mayor Scurrah warned. "It will probably take three or four months to acquire these properties."

"I think we should aim to have the building in operation by late spring of 1962—in other words, in operation for the tourist influx we will have from the Seattle Century 21 World's Fair," the Mayor said.

Council Thursday will have to decide how to choose the two sites needed and how to acquire them.

The bylaw specified only general areas within which the garages must be built—one on View Street, between Douglas and Blanshard, and the other in the area bounded by Langley, Wharf, Fort and Yates Streets.

This little ANGLIA gives you a real big boot

With 13 cubic feet of luggage space

Whether you call it a boot or a trunk, Anglia has the biggest in the little car field. Now we don't want to enter the controversy about a car's engine belonging in the front or back—all we do know is that Anglia puts the trunk in the back to give you more luggage space. Sounds kind of basic doesn't it? Yet, it's just an example of the "extras" that are standard equipment on Anglia. Try a few more! Fuel gauge as standard equipment! Foam padded seats! Full no-draught rear windows for straight through ventilation! Rear mounted gas tank as an extra safety precaution. Double arm rests and sun visors. North American type nuts and bolts. Add to these Anglia's rally-rousing performance in endurance tests 'round the world and its low price and low operating costs. Finally throw in Anglia's raked-back playbody appearance that "just happens" to give more passenger headroom and keeps the back window clear, and you suddenly realize ANGLIA is the BIG little car in the little car field. If you still have doubts, try it! See your Anglia dealer for a free demonstration. He may talk about boots, bonnets and kilometres per gallon but he talks a real good price too.

Cops Show-Stoppers at Corner

TORONTO (CP)—It was a quiet night in Toronto.

Nothing much was going on at the mid-central intersection of College and Spadina Streets—just a blonde doing an impromptu striptease.

A crowd gathered, as crowds will.

Fights broke out. As constable Bert Novis reported later: "Black lingerie had excited the crowd and fights were breaking out all over the place."

Billies came into play. Twelve men were arrested for impeding and loitering.

The blonde disappeared.

Police were called back a short time later. This time, 500 persons blocked the intersection.

The blonde was using the freshly-painted hood of a taxi as a stage, the taxi owner pleading with her either to get off the hood or remove her shoes.

The blonde wound her legs about a telephone pole and refused to leave. She did, finally, after force had been used.

Tuesday, Mrs. Jiskie Winchuk, 35, mother of three, pleaded guilty to a charge of creating a disturbance and was fined $15.

Must Have Been Wrong

Witness Reverses Her Testimony In Brandon Trial of Businessmen

BRANDON (CP)—A Crown witness reversed her testimony under cross-examination Tuesday in a conspiracy, theft and fraud trial.

Minnie Peary, former secretary-treasurer of Brandon Packers Ltd., was the only witness heard Tuesday in the trial of Toronto businessmen Hugh Paton and Hubert Cox.

She testified she had never seen any statement of Fropak Ltd. nor had she been told anything about Frobak by the accused.

After assistant Crown counsellor K. G. Houston introduced a memorandum of agreement of Nov. 21, 1956, between Fropak and Brandon Packers paying Fropak $200,000 in exchange for 2,000 cumulative shares, she agreed she must have been wrong.

B.C. Army Readies Survival Training

VERNON (CP)—A special training program for the 2,250 recruits to be added to the army militia in B.C. was announced Tuesday by Brig. J. W. Bishop, B.C. area commander.

They will attend a six-week survival course at one of 23 militia locations from Nov. 6 to June, 1962.

Missiles for Canada Fill Shopping List

* * *

OTTAWA (CP)—Assorted missiles are on the shopping list of Canada's armed forces. Some purchases may be made soon, informants said Tuesday.

To date, in this age of guided missiles, the forces have put into operation only one weapon of this type—the air-to-air Sidewinder in navy Banshee jets.

HONEST JOHN

But others are scheduled to go into service in the next few months. They are the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, the Falcon air-to-air missile in the Voodoo interceptors and the Honest John artillery rocket.

The Sidewinder will also be used in the CF-104 low-level jet bomber with which the RCAF in Europe will be equipped starting in November, 1962.

The RCAF has tested and evaluated the U.S. Bullpup air-to-surface missile at its weapons range at Cold Lake, Alta. It is a possible anti-submarine weapon for the Argus, a maritime patrol plane.

Most likely new armament for the navy is a surface-to-air missile to replace the Banshee fighter for fleet air defence.

The navy has been looking at such U.S. missiles in this field as the shipboard Terrier which has a range of 10 miles.

But an aircraft replacement for the Banshee has not been ruled out as yet.

The army has been experimenting with a French anti-tank missile and purchase orders may be placed soon.

First Voodoo Fighters Turned Over to RCAF

Special to The Colonist

OTTAWA—Delivery of the first group of U.S. Voodoo supersonic jet fighters with which Canada's five home defence air squadrons will be equipped took place over the holiday weekend.

Nine of the 66 aircraft Canada will get under the special defence and production sharing agreement arrived Monday at the Namao air base near Edmonton.

MONTH'S END

RCAF headquarters' spokesmen said Tuesday nine more planes are expected to arrive before the end of the month.

The aircraft are to be equipped with conventional weapons although their maximum effectiveness as interceptors is when they carry nuclear armament.

No. 425 (Alouette) Squadron, formerly based at St. Hubert, Que., has been reactivated and will operate the RCAF's first CF-101 formation.

INSTRUCTOR CORPS

About 10 pilots from 425 Squadron have been in the U.S. for weeks training on the supersonic planes. They will constitute an instructor corps at Namao.

Under the recent deal Canada is obtaining 66 of the CF-101's from the U.S.

The agreement called for Canada to assume responsibility for manning, operating, maintaining and financing 16 Pine Tree radar stations thus relieving the U.S.

In return Canada received the 66 F-101B interceptors (renamed in Canada the CF-101) with Canada and the U.S. sharing on a one-third two-thirds basis the cost of spare parts, flight simulators, related equipment and conventional armament.

The U.S. also agreed to obtain in Canada a number of F-104G aircraft, associated equipment and initial spares valued at $200,000,000 with the United States paying $150,000,000 and Canada $50,000,000.

NORAD SQUADRONS

The Voodoos, title to which is vested in Canada, will be armed with conventional weapons and will serve to re-equip RCAF squadrons allocated to NORAD. They will take the place of the Canadian-designed CF-105 which was ordered scrapped before it was put into full production.

'Poor' Union Concedes Precedent-Setting Case

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg union has dropped its appeal against a damage award which involved a precedent-setting ruling that unions are legal entities and can be sued.

A discontinuance of the appeal against a $3,000 damage award to a supermarket which the union had picketed was filed Tuesday in Manitoba court of appeal by Local 832 of the Retail Clerks International Association (CLC.)

LACK OF FUNDS

A union spokesman said the case already had cost $4,000 and a lack of funds was the main reason for dropping the matter.

The decision was handed down in Court of Queen's Bench by Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin who, in a precedent-setting ruling, said a union can be sued as well as the individual members.

Mr. Justice Monnin awarded $3,000 in damages to an Independent Grocers' Alliance supermarket in the neighboring city of St. James. The damages were for conspiracy to injure by means of a secondary boycott.

The court case arose out of a strike at a wholesale house. The union picketed the supermarket because it bought goods from the wholesale house and the supermarket owner started the action.

B.C. Ferry Contract

$7,000,000 Job for City?

Victoria shipyards stand an excellent chance of winning a $7,000,000 contract for construction of two new ferries for service in B.C. waters, according to a spokesman for Northland Navigation.

Capt. H. C. Terry, president of the company, said last night the contract would almost certainly go to a West Coast shipyard despite the fact bids by B.C. yards were not the lowest submittted.

FAMOUS FIRM

"Victoria is really in the running to get our contract," said Capt. Terry on the eve of his departure for Holland where he will carry out hull design tests with a model and purchase some $600,000 worth of machinery from the famous Storke Werksporr Co.

He said 14 Canadian yards bid on the contract. Award of the contract probably will be made in about four weeks, said Capt. Terry, but though he intends "to keep the business at home" he had not decided which yard will get the business.

LINK WITH ALASKA

The two 225-foot-long vessels with capacity for 300 passengers—sleeping accommodation for 104—and 300 cubic tons of cargo will form a link between Vancouver and the projected Alaska ferry service.

Capt. Terry said one ship would be built and put in service before the second is begun. This would provide a test of the many new features incorporated in the design of the vessels.

U.S. Eyes A-Bomb As Hurricane Killer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States weather bureau said Tuesday it soon will begin a study of the feasibility of using convention or nuclear bombs to break up hurricanes.

Stranded Fisherman Rescued Up-Island

A navy helicopter rescued a marooned fisherman from the rocky, storm-lashed shores of remote Klashkish Inlet, 20 miles south of Quatsino Sound, late yesterday.

T. Saiki of Prince Rupert had spent two nights on the wind-swept rocks of the shore after his 34-foot gillnetter Gale O' Wind was beached.

Earlier attempts to bring him off by boat from a naval ship were blocked by high seas smashing on the rocky shoreline.

A four-man ground party was landed from the naval auxiliary vessel Whitethroat, which was assigned to the search by the RCAF rescue co-ordination centre at Vancouver.

The ground party managed to reach Saiki Monday. They brought the marooned man food and warm clothing.

Whitethroat, under command of Capt. G. R. Hooper of Sooke Road, called for assistance Tuesday from the naval maintenance ship Cape Breton, which was within helicopter range of the rescue scene.

The Cape Breton sent a twin-rotor Piasecki helicopter, piloted by Lieut. D. E. Munro of Squamish.

The rescue was carried out in the failing light as heavy seas continued to pound the beach.

Victoria Hunter Fined Up-Island

NANAIMO—An 18-year-old Victoria hunter has been fined $10 for having a loaded rifle in his car. Donald Hazel was picked up in the South Forks area.

Pollution Law Deadline Over

Prosecutions against smoke-producing plants will be recommended to city council unless the industries can prove that they have made concrete moves towards meeting Vctoria's new air pollution bylaw.

"The deadline is over," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of city council's smoke abatement committee said last night.

IN GOOD FAITH

"We are coming to the stage where the committee will have to see that they are doing things in good faith otherwise we will have to report the situation to the council.

"If somebody is violating our bylaw without a reasonable cause, such as being unable to get equipment, we will have to recommend to council that it go ahead (and prosecute)."

NEW EQUIPMENT

A meeting of city council's public works committee Tuesday will consider a progress report from city smoke inspector Thomas Walker.

Aspokesman for B.C. Forest Products announced yesterday the company plans to instal another cinder collector in the boiler plants of its city sawmill.

Captain James Cook, the British explorer, first set foot on North American soil at Friendly Cove, B.C., on March 29, 1778.

City Smash-Grab Suspect Held

A series of smash-and-grab raids on downtown stores during the weekend and yesterday, culminated in the arrest by city detectives of a suspect recently arrived in Victoria.

A security officer at the T. Eaton Company store yesterday called in detectives in connection with a man seen taking a radio. The man broke free but was recaptured and taken to police headquarters.

Investigation led to recovery of a $100 radio and suitcase, stolen earlier in the day from the Hudson's Bay Company store; six radios valued at about $175 stolen from Radio Appliance Co., 783 Fort, and a number of watches and jewelry, worth about $1,000 stolen from K. A. McLeod Co. Ltd., jewelers, 915 Douglas.

ROCK USED

A rock was believed used to smash the window at the jewelry store.

At Radio Appliance police were told the glass of the front door had been broken to gain entry.

Two other weekend raids were also under investigation by city police.

$150 STOLEN

At the Brite Spot Drive-In, 2318 Douglas, a rock was also used to gain entry by smashing a window in the front door, and between $150 to $200 stolen.

Thieves pried open a side window in the office of Dr. S. F. Miles, 757 Courtney. The offices were ransacked and a safe and filing cabinet forced open before the culprits made off with $192 in cash.

Woman Cries Man Flies

Cries of a woman attacked on Craigflower Road sent her assailant off in a hurry last night.

She told police the attacker had grabbed her by the hair and hurled her to the ground but when she screamed he jumped on his bicycle and hastily made off.

Police searched the area but were unable to locate the attacker.

The woman was identified by police as a Mrs. Matterm, 899 Craigflower.

Fred Tinsley, the Pearly King of London, gasps in amazement as his "Old Dutch" Mary flings a nifty dart to win the game!

Meet the Pearly King and Queen of London, Wednesday, Oct. 11th at the Bay as part of our British Festival!

BRITISH FESTIVAL

You'll want to see the Bay's British Festival with exhibits and displays of British Goods from the lower main to the fourth floor. . . . As part of the fun, meet Mary and Fred Tinsley from the heart of London, as English and as enduring as all the good old English traditions. They'll be at The Bay for one day only, Wednesday, October 11, from 10 a.m. to 11.30 a.m. on the main floor—and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on the second.

Come see them, chat with them, reminisce with them about Britain—and the London you knew and loved.

'Aggression' If Police Moved—Reds

Berlin Plan Opposed

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany yesterday announced a freeze on military discharges and warned that any attempt to transfer more West German policemen into beleaguered West Berlin will be considered "an act of aggression."

The twin announcements coincided with the biggest Communist war games since the Second World War and a new rocket-rattling speech by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

DECISION PROTESTED

The warning against sending additional policemen into West Berlin was contained in an East German note addressed to the three Western allies. It protested a West German decision last week to send volunteer traffic policemen to West Berlin for short visits as a demonstration of solidarity.

AGGRESSION WARNING

"The government of the (East) German Democratic Republic," the note said, "points out that the plan to transfer West Berlin police troops to West Berlin is an act of aggression, which the (East) German Democratic Republic will oppose."

Last night Communist police lobbed a number of tear gas grenades across the wall that divides Berlin. They were thrown at a West Berlin loudspeaker truck.

'WAR PREPARATIONS'

The East German freeze on military discharges for another six months was announced by the Communist defence ministry. Western sources, meanwhile, estimated that more 500,000 Communist troops were taking part in the Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in East Germany.

'HORRIBLE REPRISALS'

Mikoyan, in a speech at a steel workers' rally in the East German city of Freital, said the Soviet's oribtal space ship Vostok II was an example of the advances made by Soviet sciences.

"These rockets are a powerful force," he said. "The Soviet Union wishes to use them only for peaceful purposes.

But, he added: "If an aggressor should dare to attack the Soviet Union and the socialist camp they will get horrible reprisals."

Shape of the Future?

Police Fire Power Boosted by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States disclosed yesterday it has taken steps to increase the fire power of West German police as the allies continued discussions on their next move in the smoldering crisis.

The state department said that "within the past few weeks" the United States had furnished M-1 automatic rifles to West Berlin police and if the local authorities requested additional weapons they would get "sympathetic consideration."

'Useful Talks' on Berlin Held by Gromyko, Mac

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan yesterday held what they described as "useful" talks on the Berlin crisis.

After the meeting, Gromyko told newsmen that he had the "general impression" following his talks here and in Washington that "there is growing understanding between ourselves."

Canada Would Come Out Second Best By Joining Common Market, Says Hees

GEORGE HEES

TORONTO (UPI) — Trade minister George Hees yesterday dismissed suggestions that Canada join the Common Market on the grounds that Canada would come out "second best" in such a move.

"It would be unrealistic to expect existing industries, and the new industries which we must develop, to prosper and expand if they are forced to face unrestricted competition from the long-established and highly nurtured industries of Western Europe," Hees said.

"If our manufacturing industries in Canada are faced with competition on a free trade basis with the industries of Western Europe, they will, in most cases, come off second best, with the consequent loss of production and employment," he said.

Hees said his department was studying what the effect would be of Canadian membership in a free trade association made up of the countries of Western Europe, Britain and the United States, and what steps might be taken to increase trade between Commonwealth members.

"It seems to me," he told a service club meeting, "that if Britain finds that she cannot obtain from the European Common Market countries the kind of arrangements which would be satisfactory to her Commonwealth partners, the next move might be a re-examination of the possibilities of expanding trade within the Commonwealth."

Hees repeated statements made at the recent Commonwealth economic conference in Accra, Ghana, that British membership in the Common Market will adversely affect Canadian trade.

'LET'S EASE TENSION' RED CHINA TELLS U.S.

MARSHAL CHEN YI
. . . talks welcomed

PEKING (Reuters)—China is willing to have talks with the United States at the foreign ministers level as a step toward easing tension between the two countries, Marshal Chen Yi, Chinese foreign minister, said today.

But the initiative for any talks must come from the United States, he emphasized.

'NO OBJECTIONS'

Marshal Chen Yi said "in Warsaw we are already having talks on the ambassadorial level. At Geneva we are talking on the level of vice foreign ministers. If it is suggested we talk on foreign ministers level we would have no objections."

Chen Yi said China is aware of fears in the West, particularly in the United States, about what would happen when China possesses atomic bombs—which is only a question of time.

When China has atomic bombs, he said, there will be less chance of war. The danger today was that such bombs were in the hands of only a few powers.

The foreign minister said if there is fear in the United States about China having atomic bombs, surely Americans realize that China can not avoid fearing the U.S. with its nuclear weapons and its policy of encircling China with military bases.

'WAR MAY SPREAD'

Marshal Chen Yi predicted that unless there is a settlement in Laos and Korea there is a risk that war will spread in the area.

He said the only way a solution to the Laotian problem could be found would be through the formation of a neutral government headed by Prince Souvanna Phouma which would include representatives of the Pathet Lao Communist guerrillas.

'FEARS GROUNDLESS'

Chen Yi said that because of China's current agricultural and industrial difficulties there is apprehension in some quarters that it "might carry out some adventure in Southeast Asia." This is groundless, he said. The only way China could overcome her difficulties was through her own production.

'A LITTLE TIGHT'

Questioned for details of these difficulties, Chen Yi said reduced agricultural production due to natural calamities—drought, floods, typhoon and insect pests—in the last three years had caused the living standards of the Chinese people to be "a little tight compared with 1958."

Enraged Pakistan Hits India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hindu-Moslem riots in which 32 persons have been killed in the last week turned into recriminations Tuesday between India and Pakistan.

Pakistani President Ayub Khan called the killing of Moslems in Uttar Pradesh state disguisting and a disgrace and ordered his envoy in New Delhi, Agha Hilaly, to protest.

INSPECTION ASKED

Hilaly delivered the protest orally to Badruddin Byabji, a foreign special secretary, and asked that a Pakistan official be allowed to inspect the troubled areas.

Byabji, a Moslem, complained that premature publicity about the protest was an "extraordinary procedure, undiplomatic, unfriendly and provocative."

He said a visit by a Pakistan official would be considered when the situation was stabilized and the entire machinery of the Indian government was mobilized to deal with the disorders.

AT UNIVERSITY

The trouble began at the Moslem university of Aligarh, 75 miles south east of New Delhi, in an election contested by Hindu and Moslem students and developed into city-wide fighting. Disorder then spread to Chandausi, 50 miles away.

The violence raised vivid memories of mass killings with the separation of India and Pakistan when they gained independence in 1947.

Fearing a spread to other states, India has warned officials to arm for preparedness measures.

'Some Happy'

LONDON (AP) — A protest march against protest marches was announced on Tuesday by 18 employees of a ballroom. It will take place Thursday, with participants carrying banners saying "we get top wages" and "we are happy in our work." Allan Ferris, manager of the ballroom and leader of the march, explained: "We are sick of people calling for strikes and moaning all the time. Some people are happy."

Big Powers Hit For 'Insane' Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku called on the small nations of the world yesterday to snatch leadership from the big powers whose "insane" policies threaten global atomic destruction.

"The time has come when the great powers should not be allowed to bulldoze us into a situation which may result in our destruction due to our own negligence," he told the 100-nation General Assembly. It applauded him loudly.

"LACK OF KNOWLEDGE"

Wachuku, flaying East and West alike, said the big powers had become obsessed with the idea of their grandeur based on how many each could kill in the other camp.

"The time has come when we have to abandon the great powers—not totally, but to put them in a cold chamber, to let them feel our coolness to see whether we cannot make them more amenable to reason."

Treat Redheads With Caution!

CHICAGO (UPI)—A former Mayo Clinic anesthesiologist urged doctors yesterday to extra extra precautions against hurting redheads.

"That's because redheads are hypersensitive to pain," said Dr. John Lundy.

He said blondes generally felt less pain than redheads, and brunettes were least sensitive to pain.

Lundy, a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for more than 35 years, said hypersensitivity to pain is more than skin deep. "It may well have something to do with the glands of internal secretion," he explained.

Lundy said occupation and nationality of a patient also influenced ability to stand pain.

No Freedom, Says Defector

ALEXANDROUNA GOLUB

AMSTERDAM (UPI)—Russian scientist Alexei Golub said yesterday he defected to the West because Soviet authorities made him stop his research on cancer-producing nuclear fallout.

Golub's defection turned into an international incident when fist-swinging Soviet officials, including Ambassador Panteleimon Ponomarenko, tried to hustle Golub's wife, Alexandrouna, aboard a plane to Moscow. Mrs. Golub voluntarily left for home several hours later.

Dutch government sources said Holland may demand the expulsion of Ponomarenko and other Russian officials involved in the clash with Dutch military police.

Golub, 35, told Dutch police and alien registration officials he decided to defect while on a tourist trip here with his 32-year-old wife and a group of other Russians because Soviet authorities hampered his research. Golub tearfully stuck by his decision even though his wife refused to join him.

He said he was investigating means of removing strontium 90, which causes cancer, from the human body. Strontium 90 is contained in the radioactive fallout produced by nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, such as those being set off by the Soviets now.

"I deeply resented the lack of freedom in the Soviet Union," Golub told police. "But when I was ordered to stop all work on my pet project, I decided to leave for the West as soon as I had a chance."

Golub contacted police Saturday night with his plea for asylum. He had told his wife of his plans but she decided to return to Russia. He explained to police that she still has parents alive there.

RIVAL FOR B.C.

Work is starting this week on the construction of a $30,000,000 newsprint mill at Whitecourt, near Edmonton. It will be owned by Alberta West Newsprint Mills Ltd. and will produce 300 tons a day from local low-cost pulpwood.

OIL RATE DROPS

Crude oil production in Alberta fell to 392,002 barrels a day in the week ending Oct. 2, compared with the 459,056 barrels a day average for September.

The drop in production was due to lower refinery demands.

'Big Discount Era' Gathers Momentum

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

"Discount" is the magic word for consumers in the United States. Value Line Investment Survey of New York in its current report says the public is flocking to stores offering branded merchandise at less than list price.

Because the customer is always right, the "discount era" is gathering momentum, and the discount business which started on big-ticket hard goods has spread in the U.S. to the full line of retail merchandising.

Value Lines says the roster of major retail companies which have ventured, or are venturing, into the discount field are the leading department stores, mail order companies, variety and grocery chains.

Even the shoe companies are climbing aboard by leasing space for their wares in discount houses on a self-service basis.

The big American food chains are likely to do best in the discount field, predicts Value Line, and it warns that competition among the discount houses has become intense and that only the strongest best managed companies will survive.

HEAVY GAS LOSSES

Another heavy net loss of $3,697,307 was suffered by Quebec Natural Gas in the year ended June 30. The amount however was an improvement on the previous year's loss of $5,461,543, and the operating loss was cut from $2,719,889 a year ago to $210,217.

The accumulated deficit of Quebec Natural Gas now stands at $13,777,402, but G. O. Maddock, president says vigorous steps are being taken to arrest further deterioration in the financial position.

He warns however that a better rate structure and more favorable terms for the purchase of gas are needed before the company can hope to straighten out its finances.

Gordon Head Campus

$1,000,000 in New Buildings Starting at Varsity This Fall

Students Praise Three-Part Plan

Nearly $1,000,000 in new construction will be under way on the Gordon Head campus before the end of this year, a spokesman for Victoria University development board said last night.

Floyd Fairclough, development manager, said tenders will be called "this fall" for a $400,000 classroom block to accommodate 800 students and a $300,000 student union building.

SCIENCE BUILDING

By the end of the year, said Mr. Fairclough, it is also expected excavation work will be in progress for the $2,000,000 science building at Gordon Head.

"Nearly complete" now are plans for the science building, he said. General contract for this major project is expected to be awarded early next year and construction under way by spring. It will take two years to complete.

CLASSROOM BLOCK

The schedule calls for completion of the student union building and classroom block by next September.

Student council members yesterday gave "enthusiastic approval" to plans for the student union building submitted by architect John Di Castri, council president Brian Little said last night.

MEETING ROOMS

The building, to be focal point of student activities on the new campus, will house offices for the student council, meeting rooms to be shared by about 40 campus clubs and societies, an administration office a large area for dancing and a patio.

Part of the cost of the building will be raised by the student council itself, a spokesman said.

NO JUSTICE

Officials said the earlier plan to combine the students' union building and cafeteria was abandoned when it became apparent the allocated funds, about $350,000, would do justice to neither.

It was decided therefore to spend the bulk of the money on a students' union building and renovate the existing mess hall at Gordon Head to serve as a cafeteria "for the next few years."

ALL ON PAPER

"We've got it all on paper," said Mr. Fairclough.

"But in a very few weeks now there will be signs of construction under way at Gordon Head."

Fosdick Must Go Police Chiefs Say

Three of Greater Victoria's police chiefs agree Fearless Fosdick must go.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe, Esquimalt; W. A. Pearson, Saanich, and Robert Smith, Oak Bay, said they more or less agreed with the International Association of Chiefs of Police. The association passed a resolution at its Montreal convention to the effect Fosdick and creator Al Capp tended to "belittle" law enforcement officers.

* * *

Sole holdout against the black-listing of the much-shot, half-starved comic strip detective was Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock, who said:

"I never read comics in the newspapers. I haven't for years, so I can't say whether Fearless Fosdick would be an influence for good or for bad."

* * *

While all three anti-Fosdick officers placed a varying amount of blame on the witless comic strip detective for lowering the prestige of law enforcement agencies in the eyes of the younger generation, they agreed parents bore a heavier responsibility.

"I don't think such comic strips improve the situation," said Chief Pearson, "but it is not only the comic strips. Every night on television there is some play showing either stupid or crooked police officers.

* * *

"But parents are the biggest contributors to the disdain modern youngsters feel for police. They try to get away with all sorts of traffic violations while their youngsters look on."

He agreed the condemnation of Fosdick and his ilk was a "good thing—but it won't accomplish anything."

* * *

Said Chief Smith: "While comic strips are possibly a necessary evil, I feel that the principle behind this resolution is good.

He said such ridicule of law enforcement agencies "could be dangerous—even on TV we have the example of Perry Mason winning all his cases, while the poor prosecutor, the representative of the law, just mumbles."

* * *

Less convinced that Fosdick contributed to the "scofflaw" attitude of youngsters toward police was Esquimalt's Chief Stancombe.

"It could be—but I think it very remote," he said. "Most children's attitude toward police reflects the attitude of their parents."

Shifts Forced At VMD

Delay in the delivery of vital parts for the third B.C. government ferry will force Victoria Machinery Depot to institute shift work next week.

The missing parts — gears linking the main propulsion machinery with the tail shafts of the twin-screw vessel—are scheduled to arrive Sunday by rail from Montreal.

DEADLINE CAUSE

Deadline of 2 p.m. Oct. 24 set for launching of the City of Victoria forced VMD to revise plans to ship the gears via Panama and deliver them to the St. Lawrence port where they were transferred to a fast freight.

VMD president Harold Husband said last night two daily shifts would be instituted Sunday and continue through next week. Some 225 men are employed on the vessel.

REMAIN OPEN

A gap in the port side hull plates, to allow the installation of the four 1,500-horsepower diesel engines, must remain open until the gears are in place.

Some delay in the tight, 10-month construction schedule had already resulted from late delivery of the main propulsion machinery.

NEW RECORD

Scheduled for delivery next February, the City of Victoria will be completed in 10 months, two months less than the previous record held by VMD for the sistership, Mv Sidney.

City of Victoria and a fourth ferry under construction at Vancouver will be added to the Swartz Bay - Tsawwassen service next spring to give it an hourly schedule.

FUTURE CONCERN

With no other major shipbuilding contracts on the order books VMD officials have expressed concern for the future.

Mr. Husband said a "few small jobs" are in progress at the VMD Bay Street plant. These include putting new engines in the 143-foot tugboat Ocean Spray, formerly the Princess of Alberni.

It was the last ship to operate the CPR run to the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Other repair jobs are being done on the weathership Stonetown and the department of transport vessel Sir James Douglas.

They Need Strong Spirit For Darkness

By TED PULFORD

The darkness has lost most of its terror for 225 sightless Victorians because of a small but dedicated organization working in their behalf.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, a United Appeal agency which seeks $12,500 to carry on its work this year, has tackled blindness on a highly personal level—and with outstanding results.

Nobody at CNIB headquarters tries to minimize blindness. They concede that it can destroy all but the strongest spirit.

LEARN TO LIVE

They insist that a person who has lost his sight can learn to live with his affliction and resume a productive role in the community.

The CNIB's Gloria Mortimore, blind herself since childhood, points out that people without sight can be as useful to the community as any one else, but they need great reserves of courage to carry it off.

"This is the biggest thing we can give blind people," Miss Mortimore explained. "When they come here, they are without hope; almost without the will to live. Before returning to a world that can see, they must be prepared to fight."

Around the CNIB, stories of personal courage are common—and so are stories of success against overwhelming odds.

While the CNIB relies heavily on United Appeal money for its work, the biggest burden of all falls on the shoulders of a corps of dedicated volunteer workers who are leading the blind back into a world where sight is taken for granted.

Volunteers read by the hour to listeners. Others drive blind people to and from the institute daily. Still others organize recreation programs.

FACE THREE PROBLEMS

One worker summed up the Victoria problem succinctly:

"To be blind is a terrible thing. To be old and alone are also terrible things. Here in Victoria, we have people who face all three.

"It is up to us to help them."

Back to Old Counting House

Federal census officials are rechecking parts of Victoria, following complaints by Mayor Percy Scurrah that the interim population figures released last month are too low.

Mayor Scurrah fired off a protest to O. A. Lemieux, director of the federal census commission, when told preliminary figures showed Victoria's population as 53,861—down 723 from the 1956 figure.

Seizure Of PNR In Doubt

Premier Bennett yesterday termed reports that the government may take over the Pacific Northern Railway project as "news to me."

Possibility that the government may take over the Wenner-Gren project if the PNR has not let contracts for the clearing of the right-of-way by Nov. 1 was mentioned yesterday by Transport Minister Earle Westwood.

"I couldn't say definitely," said the minister. "It would be a matter of policy but it could be so."

If the PNR does not meet the deadline of Nov. 1 the whole agreement will be cancelled, he said.

Raise $917

A sum of $917.20 was realized from a bazaar and tea held recently by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Sons of Scotland.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, officially opened the affair held in the K of P hall.

Protests against being fined $250 for conducting a lottery should be taken up with federal authorities, Attorney-General Robert Bonner has suggested to members of the Chemainus Community Centre Association.

The association was protesting the fine and lottery laws. Their lottery was held to raise funds for sports equipment.

Mr. Bonner said B.C. had no jurisdiction over such matters and suggested the association take its complaints to its federal MP.

CAMPBELL RIVER—A 21-year-old Courtenay man whose arm was mangled in some machinery at a Zeballos iron mine was flown to hospital here yesterday.

John Ross had his right arm amputated on arrival at Campbell River General Hospital. He was in satisfactory condition last night.

NANAIMO—Two men appeared in police court yesterday charged with driving while their licences were under suspension.

Magistrate Harold Hine was told Morris Tremblay had served 30 days on a similar charge in Port Alberni a short time ago. He sentenced Tremblay to a further 30 days.

Leo Chartier of Port Alberni was fined $15 for speeding and $50 on the suspended licence charge.

DEPARTURE BAY — Residents have shelved a proposed sewer plan for one year. The plan would have seen a sewer system costing almost $400,000 instituted and paid for over the next 25 years.

The ratepayers also decided to go it alone with fire protection plans, voting against a plan to amalgamate with two other districts to set up a paid fire-fighting force.

Instead, Departure Bay decided to spend the same money to improve local fire-fighting forces by building a new hall and buying a new truck.

Legend from Sea Level Makes Egg Eater Boil

* * *

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

SUNNY SIDE UP: When John Dawson, vice-president of the First National Bank in Chicago, ordered breakfast at the Empress yesterday he asked for two eggs, boiled for four minutes.

The waitress finally brought them around but when Mr. Dawson took the top off the eggs he found them almost raw.

He asked for two more eggs to be boiled, this time for 4½ minutes. They too were found to be only half-cooked.

"What's the matter around here?" asked the visitor.

"Well," explained the waitress, "it's because we are at sea level. Eggs don't cook as quickly here as they do in Los Angeles. You see, we're at sea level."

"Los Angeles is at sea level too and it only takes four minutes to boil an egg there," said Mr. Dawson.

"Well, they say it's because we're at sea level," said the waitress.

"Maybe," suggested another visitor at the table, "maybe you should move the kitchen up to the fifth floor."

FRACTURED FABLE: A friend of ours tells of the African chief who made so much money selling souvenirs to the UN troops in the Congo that he decided to build a new house more befitting a man of his wealth.

The chief also ordered a new throne but he was a thrifty type so he told his workers to store the old throne in the attic because one day he might be able to sell it.

With that he sat down in his new throne in his new house and surveyed his surroundings.

Just then the old throne fell through the ceiling, killing the chief.

The moral of this story is that people in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

* * *

SORRY, WRONG NUMBER: The other day we mentioned the fact that a gal who had advertised for a shorthand-typing job had been deluged with calls from shady characters who wanted her to pose for camera clubs and the like.

Apparently this is not an isolated case and other women have also been bothered by these parasites who usually reel off a string of foul language and filthy suggestions when the women says they're not interested.

Anyway, after literally dozens of such calls, it was decided to complain to the police in the municipality where the girl lives.

The result was hardly satisfactory.

"What do you expect us to do about it, lady?" snarled the officer. "It's your telephone."

Is it any wonder police are losing prestige?

Incidentally, we checked with the telephone people yesterday and were told:

"Basically it's a matter for the police. If they come to us we will, of course, give them all the assistance we can."

One would think it would not be difficult to place a dummy advertisement in the paper with a special telephone number so all calls could be traced.

But apparently one municipal police force couldn't care less.

* * *

HIGHWAY PATROL: Police stopped a motorist coming towards town about 5 a.m. the other morning, demanded to see his licence and his registration slip and wanted to know what he was doing driving at that hour of the day.

"I've just been out on a call," explained the driver.

"Oh," said the officer, a little more politely. "Are you a doctor, sir?"

"No," replied the driver. "I'm an undertaker."

. . . AND LEAVE THE DRIVING TO US: Driver of one of the huge buses on the Royal Victorian motor coach tour to Vancouver had a scarlet face the other day when his busload of passengers had to be towed off the government ferry at Tsawwassen.

Folk Festival Big Hit

Nanaimo's ethnic groups trotted out their folklore, folk-songs and costumes at recent day-long festival at St. Peter's parish hall. Picturesque Hungarian costume and doll of Mrs. Rosalie Ford was just one of many on varied program that included Scottish ballads, Danish folk songs, lute-playing Yugoslavian and Hungarian polka. Festival was sponsored by Nanaimo Arts Council and plans are being laid for repeat performance next year.—(Leahy photo.)

Duncan Agent:

Unstable Home Life Hurts Indian Pupils

NANAIMO — An unstable home life has been tagged as the reason for education standards being lower among many Indian children on Vancouver Island.

Indian agent Ron Sampson of Duncan said noisy homes deprive Indian children of a quiet place to study and do homework.

Mr. Sampson, addressing a citizenship conference in Nanaimo during the weekend, said Indians leaving the reservations often were discriminated against for employment because they are Indians.

Brownies Rocketed To Guides

COURTENAY — Guides and Brownies have gone modern.

The ceremony of elevating Brownies to Guidehood, once known as the "fly-up" has now been modernized and Brownies are now "rocketed" to the Girl Guides.

The ceremony now includes a "countdown" as each Brownie becomes a Guide.

ROCKETS SIGNED

Rocketing to Guides were Judy Scrutton, Frances Pritchard, Irene Adams, Irene Sundquist, Karne Randall, Yvonne Pidcock and Joanne MacArthur and each Brownie placed her signature on the symbolic rocket as a memento of the occasion.

Victoria Hunter Fined Up-Island

NANAIMO—An 18-year-old Victoria hunter has been fined $10 for having a loaded rifle in his car. Donald Hazel was picked up in the South Forks area.

Legion Wants Lifeguards For Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Lifeguards are to be provided for all Nanaimo beaches.

The Royal Canadian Legion is organizing a project to hire the lifeguards.

During the past summer several organizations hired a lifeguard for Departure Bay.

The Legion hired a lifeguard for Westwood Lake, but because of a lack of funds had to lay him off 10 days after hiring him.

The Legion says the experience at Westwood Lake has shown that a good lifeguard is needed at all beach points.

The organization has appealed to all organizations to finance the lifeguard project.

Storm-Lashed Island Inlet

Marooned Fisherman Saved

A navy helicopter rescued a marooned fisherman from the rocky, storm-lashed shores of remote Klashkish Inlet, 20 miles south of Quatsino Sound, late yesterday.

T. Saiki of Prince Rupert had spent two nights on the wind-swept rocks of the shore after his 34-foot gillnetter Gale O' Wind was beached.

Earlier attempts to bring him off by boat from a naval ship were blocked by high seas smashing on the rocky shoreline.

A four-man ground party was landed from the naval auxiliary vessel Whitethroat, which was assigned to the search by the RCAF rescue co-ordination centre at Vancouver.

WARM CLOTHING

The ground party managed to reach Saiki Monday. They brought the marooned man food and warm clothing.

Whitethroat, under command of Capt. G. R. Hooper of Sooke Road, called for assistance Tuesday from the naval maintenance ship Cape Breton, which was within helicopter range of the rescue scene.

The Cape Breton sent a twin-rotor Piasecki helicopter, piloted by Lieut. D. E. Munro of Squamish.

The rescue was carried out in the failing light as heavy seas continued to pound the beach.

Saiki and one of the ground crewmen were taken back to the Cape Breton on the first trip.

THREE REMAINING

Then Lieut. Munro returned to the area to pick up the three remaining searchers.

Aboard the Cape Breton, the rescued man was treated for exposure, then flown to hospital at Port Hardy.

The rescue co-ordination centre at Vancouver said no "May Day" call was received from the stricken gillnetter.

The boat, owned by the Canadian Fishing Co. of Vancouver, was enroute to the fishing grounds of Esperanza Inlet when it grounded in high winds. A company official said the vessel appeared to be a total wreck from the strong surf that pounded her against the rocks.

The search was launched when the vessel was reported overdue.

The pilot of a company airplane from the fishing fleet's headquarters at Port Edwards spotted Saiki on the shore while enroute to Vancouver.

Whitethroat was working on an oceanographic survey for the Pacific Naval Laboratory when it was ordered to the scene.

When attempts to reach Saiki by boat failed, the ground party was landed at a calmer spot along the coast.

They found Saiki huddled over a fire he had managed to build. An RCAF airplane air-dropped supplies to the group Tuesday as they waited for the helicopter.

Port Alberni Gains 887 Recent Census Shows

PORT ALBERNI—Population of Port Alberni has risen close to 9 per cent in the past five years.

According to the census taken this year, there are 11,260 residents in the city as compared to 10,373 enumerated during the 1956 census.

Seamen's Home Backer Dies

NANAIMO — A 76-year-old man who for years advocated the building of a seaman's home in Nanaimo was buried here Saturday afternoon.

Richard Nixon was a supporter of programs for merchant seamen. He visited hundreds of ships berthed in Nanaimo.

Mr. Nixon lived to see a committee formed to investigate the possibilities of building a seamen's hostel in Nanaimo.

Historic Home Coming Down

ALBERNI—The Hermitage, symbol of gracious living when conditions in the Alberni Valley were strictly frontier, is being demolished by Axel Nyhuus.

Oak panelling from England, Italian bricks and French plumbing fixtures are all being torn down and pulled out of the home built in 1912 for the late Cluney Luke and his wife.

Big game trophies, brought back by Mr. and Mrs. Luke from fabulous hunting trips, adorned the walls of spacious rooms. When the owners left the district for Europe shortly after the end of the Second World War, moths moved in to take their toll of the relics of the chase.

Legends grew around the Lukes and their house overlooking Somass River.

Mr. Luke died in Edinburgh some years ago and his widow now is living in Paris.

After their house was sold by auction for a fraction of its original cost, several attempts were made to put the building to commercial use. Cost of heating the 10 huge rooms made operation uneconomical. The land has become more valuable as the demand for good commercial gravel increases.

‘Aggression’ If Police Moved—Reds

Berlin Plan Opposed

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany yesterday announced a freeze on military discharges and warned that any attempt to transfer more West German policemen into beleaguered West Berlin will be considered "an act of aggression."

The twin announcements coincided with the biggest Communist war games since the Second World War and a new rocket-rattling speech by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

DECISION PROTESTED

The warning against sending additional policemen into West Berlin was contained in an East German note addressed to the three Western allies. It protested a West German decision last week to send volunteer traffic policemen to West Berlin for short visits as a demonstration of solidarity.

AGGRESSION WARNING

"The government of the (East) German Democratic Republic," the note said, "points out that the plan to transfer West German police troops to West Berlin is an act of aggression, which the (East) German Democratic Republic will oppose."

Last night Communist police lobbed a number of tear gas grenades across the wall that divides Berlin. They were thrown at a West Berlin loudspeaker truck.

'WAR PREPARATIONS'

The East German freeze on military discharges for another six months was announced by the Communist defence ministry. Western sources, meanwhile, estimated more than 500,000 Communist troops were taking part in the Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in East Germany.

'HORRIBLE REPRISALS'

Mikoyan, in a speech at a steel workers' rally in the East German city of Freital, said the Soviet's orbital space ship Vostok II was an example of the advances made by Soviet sciences.

"These rockets are a powerful force," he said. "The Soviet Union wishes to use them only for peaceful purposes."

But, he added: "If an aggressor should dare to attack the Soviet Union and the socialist camp they will get horrible reprisals."

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—Warden Charles W. Frame of the Chester county prison farm, in hospital with severe internal bleeding, is being aided by the blood of 53 inmates who volunteered to donate, the prison reported.

Police Fire Power Boosted by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States disclosed yesterday it has taken steps to increase the fire power of West German police as the allies continued discussions on their next move in the smoldering crisis.

The state department said that "within the past few weeks" the United States had furnished M-1 automatic rifles to West Berlin police and if the local authorities requested additional weapons they would get "sympathetic consideration."

'Useful Talks' on Berlin Held by Gromyko, Mac

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan yesterday held what they described as "useful" talks on the Berlin crisis.

After the meeting, Gromyko told newsmen that he had the "general impression" following his talks here and in Washington that "there is growing understanding between us."

WILLING TO TALK CHINA TELLS U.S.

* * *

. . . talks welcomed

PEKING (Reuters)—China is willing to have talks with the United States at the foreign ministers level as a step toward easing tension between the two countries, Marshal Chen Yi, Chinese foreign minister, said today.

But the initiative for any talks must come from the United States, he emphasized.

Marshal Chen Yi said "in Warsaw we are already having talks on the ambassadorial level. At Geneva we are talking on the level of vice foreign ministers. If it is suggested we talk on the foreign ministers' level we would have no objections."

Chen Yi said China is aware of fears in the West, particularly in the United States, about what would happen when China possesses atomic bombs—which is only a question of time.

When China has atomic bombs, he said, there will be less chance of war. The danger today was that such bombs were in the hands of only a few powers.

The foreign minister said if there is fear in the United States about China having atomic bombs, surely Americans realize that China can not avoid fearing the U.S. with its nuclear weapons and its policy of encircling China with military bases.

'WAR MAY SPREAD'

Marshal Chen Yi predicted that unless there is a settlement in Laos and Korea there is a risk that war will spread in the area.

He said the only way a solution to the Laotian problem could be found would be through the formation of a neutral government headed by Prince Souvanna Phouma which would include representatives of the Pathet Lao Communist guerrillas.

'FEARS GROUNDLESS'

Chen Yi said that because of China's current agricultural and industrial difficulties there is apprehension in some quarters that it "might carry out some adventure in Southeast-east Asia." This is groundless, he said. The only way China could overcome her difficulties was through her own production.

'A LITTLE TIGHT'

Questioned for details of these difficulties, Chen Yi said reduced agricultural production due to natural calamities—drought, floods, typhoons and insect pests—in the last three years had caused the living standards of the Chinese people to be "a little tight compared with 1958."

Enraged Pakistan Hits India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hindu-Moslem riots in which 32 persons have been killed in the last week turned into recriminations Tuesday between India and Pakistan.

Pakistani President Ayub Khan called the killing of Moslems in Uttar Pradesh state disguisting and a disgrace and ordered his envoy in New Delhi, Agha Hilaly, to protest.

INSPECTION ASKED

Hilaly delivered the protest orally to Badruddin Byabji, a foreign special scretary, and asked that a Pakistan official be allowed to inspect the troubled areas.

Byabji, a Moslem, complained that premature publicity about the protest was an "extraordinary procedure, undiplomatic, unfriendly and provocative."

He said a visit by a Pakistan official would be considered when the situation was stabilized and the entire machinery of the Indian government was mobilized to deal with the disorders.

AT UNIVERSITY

The trouble began at the Moslem university of Aligarh, 75 miles south east of New Delhi, in an election contested by Hindu and Moslem students and developed into city-wide fighting. Disorder then spread to Chandausi, 50 miles away.

The violence raised vivid memories of mass killings with the separation of India and Pakistan when they gained independence in 1947.

Fearing a spread to other states, India has warned officials to arm for prepardness measures.

'Some Folks Happy'

LONDON (AP)—A protest march against protest marches was announced on Tuesday by 18 employees of a ballroom. It will take place Thursday, with participants carrying banners saying "we get top wages" and "we are happy in our work." Allan Ferris, manager of the ballroom and leader of the march, explained: "We are sick of people calling for strikes and moaning all the time. Some people are happy."

Big Powers Hit For 'Insane' Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku called on the small nations of the world yesterday to snatch leadership from the big powers whose "insane" policies threaten global atomic destruction.

"The time has come when the great powers should not be allowed to bulldoze us into a situation which may result in our destruction due to our own negligence," he told the 100-nation General Assembly. It applauded him loudly.

"LACK OF KNOWLEDGE"

Wachuku, flaying East and West alike, said the big powers had become obsessed with the idea of their grandeur based on how many each could kill in the other camp.

"The time has come when we have to abandon the great powers—not totally, but to put them in a cold chamber, to let them feel our coolness, to see whether we cannot make them more amenable to reason."

Treat Redheads With Caution!

CHICAGO (UPI)—A former Mayo Clinic anesthesiologist urged doctors yesterday to take extra precautions against hurting redheads.

"That's because redheads are hypersensitive to pain," said Dr. John Lundy.

He said blondes generally felt less pain than redheads, and brunettes were least sensitive to pain.

Lundy, a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for more than 35 years, said hypersensitivity to pain is more than skin deep. "It may well have something to do with the glands of internal secretion," he explained.

Lundy said occupation and nationality of a patient also influenced ability to stand pain.

Canada Would Come Out Second Best By Joining Common Market, Says Hees

TORONTO (UPI) — Trade Minister George Hees yesterday dismissed suggestions that Canada join the Common Market on the grounds that Canada would come out "second best" in such a move.

"It would be unrealistic to expect existing industries, and the new industries which we must develop, to prosper and expand if they are forced to face unrestricted competition from the long-established and highly nurtured industries of Western Europe," Hees said.

"If our manufacturing industries in Canada are faced with competition on a free trade basis with the industries of Western Europe, they will, in most cases, come off second best, with the consequent loss of production and employment," he said.

Hees said his department was studying what the effect would be of Canadian membership in a free trade association made up of the countries of Western Europe, Britain and the United States, and what steps might be taken to increase trade between Commonwealth members.

"It seems to me," he told a service club meeting, "that if Britain finds that she cannot obtain from the European Common Market countries the kind of arrangements which would be satisfactory to her Commonwealth partners, the next move might be a re-examination of the possibilities of expanding trade within the Commonwealth."

Hees repeated statements made at the recent Commonwealth economic conference in Accra, Ghana, that British membership in the Common Market will adversely affect Canadian trade.

No Freedom, Says Defector

ALEXANDROUNA GOLUB

AMSTERDAM (UPI)—Russian scientist Alexei Golub said yesterday he defected to the West because Soviet authorities made him stop his research on cancer-producing nuclear fallout.

Golub's defection turned into an international incident when fist-swinging Soviet officials, including Ambassador Panteleimon Ponomarenko, tried to hustle Golub's wife, Alexandrouna, aboard a plane to Moscow. Mrs. Golub voluntarily left for home several hours later.

Dutch government sources said Holland may demand the expulsion of Ponomarenko and other Russian officials involved in the clash with Dutch military police.

Golub, 35, told Dutch police and alien registration officials he decided to defect while on a tourist trip here with his 32-year-old wife and a group of other Russians because Soviet authorities hampered his research. Golub tearfully stuck by his decision even though his wife refused to join him.

He said he was investigating means of removing strontium 90, which causes cancer, from the human body. Strontium 90 is contained in the radioactive fallout produced by nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, such as those being set off by the Soviets now.

"I deeply resented the lack of freedom in the Soviet Union," Golub told police. "But when I was ordered to stop all work on my pet project, I decided to leave for the West as soon as I had a chance."

Golub contacted police Saturday night with his plea for asylum. He had told his wife of his plans but she decided to return to Russia. He explained to police that she still has parents alive there.
